by BETTY LEE
Backers of a hospital for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area may sue Blue Cross-Blue Shield, charging the agency has hindered efforts to raise money for the hospital.

Blue Cross officials have refused to sign a contract with Franklin Boulevard Hospital for its proposed branch near Wheeling. Hospital officials say lack of a contract makes it difficult to obtain financing.

"Our problem comes down to Blue Cross and getting the finances," said Norman Davis, consultant to Franklin Boulevard Hospital in Chicago. "We have to make up our minds on what to do next."

Blue Cross-Blue Shield refused to enter an agreement with the hospital after the Comprehensive Health Planning agency said the hospital branch was not needed. Davis said the hospital could be built without the agency's approval, but lending agencies hesitate to support the project without a Blue Cross contract.

DAVIS SAID a lawsuit against the health insurance company is being considered. "We wonder if Blue Cross has any right to do this," he said.

Plans for the 228-bed hospital were approved by the state last May, just before a certificate-of-need law enacted last October requiring backers to prove a hospital is needed went into effect.

"Blue Cross is ignoring the intent of the state legislature which exempted certain hospitals already in plans," Davis said. "How a private organization can ignore this is something we'll have to see."

Hospital plans have been tangled in a legal web for months.

Davis said Franklin Boulevard Hospital representatives will attend a meeting Thursday in Chicago conducted by Comprehensive Health Planning. Backers of other proposed hospitals turned down by the agency apparently will lodge their opposition to the agency's rulings, Davis said.

DAVIS SAID a proposed hospital in Glendale Heights also received state approval but was rejected by the planning agency, which has local jurisdiction. "We even had final approval to build there," he said.

Davis said financial plans for the hospital near Wheeling were "all arranged" until Blue Cross declined to enter into a contract.

Construction of the hospital originally was estimated to be $11.3 million, but because of delays, officials now anticipate a $12 million price tag.

The hospital has been proposed for a site on the east side of Schoenbeck Road, south of Wheeling limits. Officials hope to annex the hospital site to the village.

The hospital is designed to serve Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, and parts of Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights, Northbrook and southern Lake County.

Marienthal first to file for trustee

by JOHN MAES
John Marienthal, 951 Dunham Ln., Monday became the third person to announce his candidacy for Buffalo Grove trustee and the first to file nominating petitions for the April 15 village election.

Marienthal, 28, will have the top spot on the ballot because he was first to file with the clerk. Thus far he is the only candidate in the election from the Lake County half of the village.

Two other residents from the Cook County section of the village have announced they will seek one of the three 4-year terms open in the election. The two, Robert Dogart, 930 Plum Grove Circle, and Dorothy Berth, 304 Indian Hill Ln., have not yet filed.

MARIENTHAL SAID Monday he was not ready to disclose full details of his campaign platform but said, "I plan to be very responsive to the people if elected."

Marienthal said one of the first things he would do as trustee is set up a staff of representatives in each of Buffalo Grove's 12 precincts. They would contact residents each week to discuss the village board meeting agenda.

"They'll contact people within that district regarding the agenda at the board meeting and I'll be able to get feedback from people in that way," Marienthal said. He then would use the information when voting at board sessions.

He also said officials are allowing too many multi-family housing developments and should place greater emphasis on construction of single-family houses in Buffalo Grove. "This should be a thing in the front of people's minds," he said.

He said efforts also should be stepped up to bring industry into the village. "In my years here, it seems like this village has been unable to secure any industry."

BECAUSE HE lives in Lake County, Marienthal said, he also would give residents in that area a stronger voice on the village board. "They're 5,000 people who make up part of the village population and they should be represented."

Marienthal has no present plans to run as part of a party slate. He filed as an independent candidate.

Marienthal, a graduate of Marquette University, is married and works as a regional credit manager for Wilson Sporting Goods, River Grove. He also has been active in local boys' football programs.

Three trustees and a village president will be elected April 15. Four candidates have declared themselves for the top post. They are: James Stumbaugh, 393 Raupp Blvd.; Trustees Edward Osmon and Randall Rathjen, and ex-trustee Edward Fabish.

A new village clerk also will be elected but incumbent Verna Clayton is the only candidate for the post.

Harper board to meet with area residents

The Harper College Board of Trustees will meet with residents of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Pioneer Savings and Loan Assn., 699 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

The meeting is the third in a series planned by the Harper board. At earlier meetings in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect, board members have answered questions about the college's plans for a second site, the school's curriculum and other issues.

Invitations have been sent to 100 civic leaders from the two villages. The public may attend.

Board votes to revoke officials' pay raises

The Buffalo Grove Village Board will revoke a 1973 ordinance to boost the pay of trustees and the village president.

The decision came in a 4-2 vote Monday night following a motion by Trustee Thomas Mahoney to cancel the ordinance.

Before last night, trustees elected in April were to receive a 233 per cent raise, from $30 to $100 per month. The village president's salary was also to increase to $3,000 yearly from the current $1,800.

The presidential post as well as three trusteeships are up for election.

Trustees Randall Rathjen and Edward Osmon cast negative votes on Mahoney's motion.

Mahoney said he was suggesting pay scales remain at present levels because the savings would be a good way to help remedy Buffalo Grove's current financial problems.

HE SAID THE village is "hard strapped" for money and cited figures indicating an extra $3,000 would be paid to trustees annually once the increase is "fully implemented."

Mahoney also said the pay increase would not attract a larger number or more highly qualified candidates for public office.

Rathjen, however, said he was against the "headlong rush" to rescind the ordinance, saying officials should have considered its financial bind before approving public money for what he termed "unnecessary projects."

He also said that the notion of attracting more or better qualified candidates was not even at issue in voting the pay raise.

Osmon noted that sometimes trustees put in much more time on village-related work than is reflected in their salaries.

TRUSTEE JAMES SHIRLEY, who backed the motion, said "service to the village is something a person has to want to do."

He said it was unfair for new trustees to be paid more than those who have served longer periods on the board. If a pay raise were granted the amount should be pooled among all the trustees, he said.

He was told however, by Village Atty. Richard Rayza that it would be illegal because elected officials cannot vote themselves a pay raise that takes effect during their current term of office.

The board will take a final vote on the matter at future meeting after drafting of a new ordinance.

Mistrial declared in Middleton case

A mistrial was declared Monday in the $1.2 million civil suit against Dr. James G. Middleton, convicted Des Plaines physician, after a Circuit Court jury was unable to agree on a verdict. Middleton was charged by Lynn Nelson, 27, with drugging and sexually assaulting her Feb. 7, 1970. Mrs. Nelson's attorney would not comment on whether she plans to ask for a new trial. Middleton, 48, seemed pleased with the jury's findings and said contradictions in Mrs. Nelson's testimony practically would assure a successful appeal of his 1972 conviction of deviate sexual assault.

Mikva files to end Young's rap

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, has filed a motion with the House Committee on Administration to dismiss a complaint by former Rep. Samuel H. Young which seeks to overturn Mikva's Nov. 5 election victory over Young. The motion called "false and frivolous" a charge that Mikva used misleading campaign literature. It also said the lack of initiating by election judges of some absentee ballots is not grounds for changing the election outcome, as had been asserted by Young.

Coste Schaumburg manager?

Schaumburg Village Administrator John E. Coste tonight is expected to be named to the new post of village manager at an annual salary of $27,450. Trustee James Guthrie, who heads the manager-selection committee, refused to discuss the candidate to be recommended for the post, but sources close to village government say Coste will get the job. The village has screened resumes of 31 candidates.

Ryan to run in Arlington

Trustee James T. Ryan of Arlington Heights announced Monday he will run for village president as an independent, opposing Caucus-backed Trustee David Griffin. Also Monday, three surprise candidates for trustee filed nominating petitions. Though all four apparently were prompted to run by the conduct of the Caucus selection procedure, they have not formed a slate. Griffin and Donald Norman, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, both denied Monday any Democratic Party involvement in Griffin's Caucus selection. Norman said he was sick and tired of "Republican cry-babies." "If they don't win with their surreptitious (Caucus) rules, they want to take their bats and go home," he said.

Hospital backers may file suit

Backers of a hospital for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area may sue Blue Cross-Blue Shield, charging the agency has hindered efforts to raise money for the hospital. Blue Cross officials have refused to sign a contract with Franklin Boulevard Hospital for its proposed branch near Wheeling because a state agency said the hospital is not needed. Lack of the contract has hampered efforts to obtain financing.

Utility needs money, ICC told

Citizens Utilities Co. "is in serious need of additional revenues," a company official told the Illinois Commerce Commission at a hearing Monday on a 36 per cent power rate increase request. Jack O. Sanders, vice president of the utility, told the commission that rate increases approved last year were not sufficient. Opponents of the rate hike, which would affect residents of the New Town area of Mount Prospect and Waycinden Park near Des Plaines, are expected to concentrate on the fact that Citizens is relying on data submitted for a previous rate hike last summer to support its latest request.

Park lobbying group sought

The Elk Grove Park Board is calling a meeting Feb. 15 of 75 area park district representatives to set up a lobbying organization. Park Board Pres. Lew Smith hopes to form a coalition of northeastern Illinois park districts to push for federal and state legislation providing more park revenue and other measures benefiting park districts.

Blair hired as $31,200 consultant

by BOB LAHEY

Illinois Republicans seeking to unify themselves as the minority party in the state House of Representatives again have found themselves disrupted by the man at the center of their intraparty feuding for the past four years.

Republican reactions ranged from outrage to befuddlement at the revelation that House Minority Leader James (Bud) Washburn of Morris had hired deposed Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair of Park Forest as a $2,600-a-month "consultant."

Blair, after four stormy years as speaker, was removed from the General Assembly by voters in his district in the November election. Washburn then was elected Republican leader in the House, with the support of those who had been loyal to Blair as speaker.

SUBURBAN Republicans described Washburn's actions as "disappointing," "amazing" and "dumb."

Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, who has called for Washburn's removal as minority leader, said Monday there is substantial support for that action among the 76 GOP representatives. Other suburban legislators, however, said they doubted Washburn would be removed.

Although Washburn has told other Republican leaders that Blair's consulting contract is a "short-term arrangement," the yearly rate of the contract would be $31,200 — more than the $30,000 Blair received as speaker.

Rep. Brian Duff, R-Willmette, recently appointed by Washburn as GOP whip, said Washburn has assured him the contract, renewable every 30 days, would last "only a month or two."

REVELATION of the contract, which includes secretarial and office services, $38 a day for expenses, and 15 cents a mile for transportation — revived rumors of a Blair-Washburn deal to keep Blair alive politically.

Rumors circulated in Springfield after Washburn's election as GOP leader that a number of Blair-Washburn loyalists would help elect Democrat Rep. Clyde Choate of Anna as speaker of the House. In return, the rumor went, Blair would retain a voice in legislative matters, although no longer a representative.

Washburn has told fellow Republicans he needs Blair's advice on organization of the House during "the transitional period."

Others say former members of Blair's leadership advised Washburn that as speaker Blair was so secretive that only he could advise Washburn of any commitments to Democrats that might need to be honored.

There also were reports that Blair, whose real-estate business suffered during his four years as speaker, needed money.

"I'm a little amazed," said Rep. Leo LaFleur, R-Bloomington, of the appointment. "But my amazement is tempered by my understanding that he (Blair) is flat broke."

REP. VIRGINIA Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, called the appointment "disappointing" and "demeaning" to both Blair and Washburn.

"If Bud Washburn needs that kind of help," she said, "perhaps it indicates he was not ready for that position."

Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, who backed Blair as speaker in 1972 and voted for Washburn as minority leader, said he was "quite disappointed" by the contract. He called it "a bad move . . . a serious mistake that will make it difficult unifying 76 Republicans."

Another legislator who had talked to other Republicans said, "Some have said it is a payoff. Others have said he (Washburn) is weak. Others have said he is stupid."

State paid bill for Blair flights

Former House Speaker W. Robert Blair flew at state expense at least five times after officially leaving office as a state representative Jan. 8, United Press International reported Monday.

The flights, four of which Blair shared with other state officials, were billed to state agencies. All the trips occurred between Jan. 11 and Jan. 20, before Blair was hired as a "consultant" to House Republicans.

Four trips from Springfield to O'Hare Airport were with legislators or Democratic Sec. of State Michael Howlett. The fifth was a round-trip flight from Springfield to Chicago's Meigs Field, with Blair as the only passenger.

Total cost of the flights, according to UPI, was $1,003.50, including $218 for the one on which Blair flew alone. Authorization papers for that flight were signed by Blair and it was billed to House operations.

Urban crime fight vowed

Levi sees death penalty as deterrent in certain crimes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legal scholar Edward H. Levi said Monday he favors reviving the death penalty for certain crimes and will, if confirmed as attorney general, give the fight against urban crime very high priority.

Testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee, Levi, president of the University of Chicago, also pledged that as head of the Justice Department he would set up guidelines for use of FBI files on the private lives of members of Congress.

"I would want to allay any fears that a security file system of this kind is not being used to put pressure on members of Congress," Levi said.

As for the death penalty, Levi said it should be imposed for a limited category of offenses including skyjacking, murder by a convicted murderer and the killing of police officers.

"My belief is the death penalty, if enforced, would have a deterrent effect," he said.

The Supreme Court struck down arbitrary use of the death penalty but left the way open for Congress and the states to reinstate it if it was uniformly applied.

Levi said rising urban crime would have "a disastrous effect upon our society" if not checked, and any successful fight against it "means more effective policing, more effective gun control, more effective prosecution, and a different attitude on the part of the courts."

On another topic, Levi admitted he had made a "mistake" in bugging jury rooms for a research project in the 50s, and said he would give top priority to privacy rights if confirmed as attorney general.

He said that as head of the Justice Department he would set up guidelines to prevent abuses in government surveillance.

The use of secret listening devices during research into jury behavior, though approved by court officials in hindsight was an obvious error, Levi said.

On other subjects, Levi testified:

- Although he is a career legal scholar he has never practiced law privately.

- He votes in general elections but is not registered to vote in either party's primaries and does not know whether his political philosophy is Republican or Democratic.

- He, like his two predecessors, pledges not to interfere with the special Watergate prosecutor.

- Although the Justice Department's credibility was badly damaged by the Watergate scandal, he does not believe it should be removed from the executive branch and made an independent agency.

Attacks mark Viet cease-fire signing

The second anniversary of the signing of the Vietnam cease-fire was marked Monday by Communist attacks across South Vietnam, with a rocket barrage against a major airbase only 14 miles north of Saigon. Since the Paris accords were signed Jan. 27, 1973, almost 250,000 Vietnamese have been killed or wounded.

In Cambodia, meanwhile, American officials told officials the United States does not want to begin a Berlin-style airlift to keep Phnom Penh alive because of the danger to U. S. aircraft.

Rabin: Israel ready for peace, but...

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin Monday said Israel is ready for peace, but never would return to the frontiers it held before the 1967 Middle East war, calling them "the kind of lines that brought war rather than prevented war." In Paris, meanwhile, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat talked with French President Giscard d'Estaing about arms and a Middle East peace settlement and said, "There was an atmosphere of friendship and fraternity — I am fully satisfied."

Anti-war forces ended three days of rallies Monday with a demonstration on the steps of the Capitol expressing confidence they could defeat administration requests for $520 million in emergency military funds for Indochina. The U. S. Supreme Court Monday refused to allow retrial of all persons convicted by juries chosen from all-male jury lists, even though it has found the practice unconstitutional. In another case, the court refused to intervene in lower court decisions upholding state laws which allow women to be excused from jury duty simply because they are women.

$18 billion quick tax cut urged

Trade deficit 2nd highest in century

From Herald news services

The government said Monday the U.S. trade deficit was the second highest in this century and that the annual productivity in the economy dropped for the first time on record. Meanwhile, U.S. Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., recommended his House Ways and Means Committee pass a quick tax cut of $15 billion to $18 billion, most of which would go to low- and moderate-income Americans.

The trade deficit of $3 billion was caused by a tripled bill for imported oil, even though there was a 5 per cent cut in the amount of oil imported. A trade deficit means the United States spent more for imported goods than it got in return for exported goods.

In a separate report, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said non-farm productivity fell 5.1 per cent in October, November and December for the seventh consecutive quarter. It is the longest slide in productivity since such records were begun in 1947.

For the year, productivity declined 2.7 per cent, the first annual drop since the government started keeping records.

Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent said the trade deficit was "disappointing but not unexpected." He said if the cost of imported oil had not tripled, the United States would have ended the year with a trade surplus of $14 billion.

Although the United States imported less oil, the cost soared from $7.0 billion in 1973 to $24.6 billion in 1974.

Overall, the United States imported $101 billion in goods in 1974, a 45 per cent increase over 1973 imports of $69.5 billion. Exports for 1974 were valued at $97.9 billion, up 38 per cent from 1973 total of $70.8 billion.

On Ullman's tax cut recommendation, seven prominent economists agreed in testimony to the committee that a tax cut of $15 billion to $20 billion is necessary to stimulate the economy toward recovery. All agreed that most or all of the cut should come through lower withholding rates rather than a one-shot rebate as President Ford proposes.

As proposed by Ullman and later expanded on by staff experts, Ullman's bill would:

- Grant an immediate rebate of $5 billion to $7 billion to low-income taxpayers.

- Lower income tax withholding rates by $8 billion to $10 billion, spread over the remainder of 1975, limited to low- and moderate-income persons.

- Perhaps give a portion of the cut in the form of a tax credit for a part of Social Security taxes paid.

- Cut business taxes by about $3 billion by increasing the investment tax credit from 7 per cent to 10 per cent. Ullman said he would like to make the tax credit increase permanent but he said he did not believe the committee would go along with him.

In other economic developments Monday, it was reported:

- Governors of eight Northeastern states filed suit in U.S. District Court to block President Ford's program to increase fuel prices by raising oil import fees, a measure Ford believes they do not comprehend.

- Sen. GOP leader Hugh Scott told reporters the President has told Republican and Democratic senators he was willing to compromise with Congress on his economic-energy program. The president ordered fees on imported oil hiked by $3 a barrel. Scott said Ford might compromise on $2.

- Sugar, in short supply and at record prices only two months ago, is suddenly bloating warehouses and backing up shipping harbors. Industry spokesmen said prices in supermarkets will decline — at least temporarily. The supply may be only temporary. A Dept. of Agriculture estimate indicates world sugar production for 1974-75 would fall 100,000 tons short of demand.

Pilots lack confidence in controllers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Veteran airline captains expressed a lack of confidence Monday in air traffic control instructions and said many of their fellow pilots would have taken the same actions that caused the worst U.S. air disaster of 1974.

The pilots were among the opening witnesses at a National Transportation Safety Board hearing into the crash of TWA's flight 515 in the Virginia mountains that killed 92 persons Dec. 1.

The chairman of the hearing, Louis M. Thayer, reported evidence of widespread confusion about the meaning of certain air traffic control instructions and said he would expand his probe into a full-scale investigation of the U.S. air traffic control system.

The chief federal investigator of the crash, Rudolf Kapustin, said his teams had turned up evidence that possible misunderstanding of landing approach clearances might have caused many U.S. airliners to descend to unsafe altitudes just as flight 514 did minutes before it crashed.

V. J. Beaudrault, an Eastern Air Lines captain, said the landing approach clearance granted the TWA flight while it was still west of the Blue Ridge Mountains would normally be interpreted by pilots as meaning the plane could safely descend to the landing approach altitude, which for runway 12 at Dulles — the one all planes were using at that time because of the weather — would have been 1,800 feet.

Beaudrault said he got such a clearance, but maintained a higher altitude to get over the mountains. He said it is always his policy to check the minimum safe altitude with onboard charts.

Senate vote creates unit to probe CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate formally established an 11-member special committee Monday to investigate alleged CIA intelligence gathering abuses — an inquiry one prospective member said may require testimony from former President Richard M. Nixon.

The vote was 82 to 4 with Sens. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.; William V. Scott, R-Va.; Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., expressing the only opposition.

Besides examining allegations the CIA illegally gathered information on thousands of American anti-war dissidents, the committee is empowered to make a general review of Central Intelligence Agency practices as well as those of the FBI and other government intelligence units.

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., whose selection as one of the panel's five Republicans was announced earlier, raised the prospect of Nixon's testimony.

IRA resumes violence in Britain, N. Ireland

LONDON (UPI) — The Irish Republican Army reopened its bombing campaign in Britain Monday, hitting stores and industrial targets in an all-day blitz that spread from Londonderry, Northern Ireland to within earshot of Buckingham Palace.

At least 22 persons were injured, 19 of them in Manchester, 200 miles northwest of London, when a firebomb went off in the basement of Lewis's department store crowded with afternoon shoppers.

Three hours later, the blitz spread to London. First a bomb wrecked the store front of Gieves, tailors to generations of military figures.

After two more blasts at a coal gas storage plant and a nearby chemical works in the northern suburb of Enfield, the bombers struck within a half-mile of Kensington Palace, residence of Princess Margaret, younger sister of Queen Elizabeth II.

The bomb went off outside Rattner's, Jewish-owned jewelry store, injuring three women passersby, police said.

Police still were clearing the area when a blast rocked Victoria Street between Scotland Yard police headquarters and Victoria railroad terminal, causing extensive damage to the Army and Navy department store.

The area is less than a mile from the Houses of Parliament and Buckingham Palace, the Queen's residence.

The bombings, coming on top of at least nine similar incidents in Northern Ireland during the day, were the IRA's first major offensive since it put into effect a 25-day cease-fire Dec. 22 in its five-year war to try to drive British troops from Northern Ireland.

It came 24 hours after IRA sources were confidently predicting the start of another cease-fire soon.

In 1921, Oleniczak was sentenced for life for killing two persons during the robbery of a bank in Bay City, Mich. The Michigan state parole board has already decided the 54 years behind bars is enough for Oleniczak, but it will eventually be up to Michigan Gov. William Milliken to make the parole possible.

Michigan mother fights for parental rights

by CATHY L. TROST

Rita Thomas Herrala says they don't take colts away from their dams right after birth, but in our society horses get better treatment than people.

Mrs. Herrala, 29, the wife of a South Lyons, Mich., school principal and the mother of two children, is challenging the U.S. Postal Service rules to determine what she calls the right of parents "toward our children." The parents she specifically refers to are working mothers, and the immediate problem is the proper length for maternity leave.

"The industrial and business powers in this country," she said, "have always insisted that parents who want to work have no choice but to farm out their children. If people want to find out what's wrong with children in this society, just look at the work ethic."

Mrs. Herrala continued working at the Detroit Metropolitan Air Mail Field Post Office until one week before the birth of her daughter, Marya, last August, despite some objections which she battled to overcome. When the Postal Service ordered her back to work after a three-month maternity leave, she protested.

"I have a responsibility to be with my child for at least part of its natural babyhood," Mrs. Herrala said, cuddling her child. "They don't take colts away from horses after birth, but in this society horses apparently come before people."

MRS. HERRALA says the issue at stake is what can be defined as a reasonable length of maternity leave. She said she must breast-feed her child until next May, but the Post Office rules stipulate eight weeks as a reasonable maternity leave.

The day after Thanksgiving, Mrs. Herrala bundled up Marya and set off to confront her supervisor at the post office. The baby began crying in the office and the mother asked permission to breast-feed the child. The supervisor told her such a display would not be allowed on Postal Service premises. With that, mother and child departed, vowing to take the maternity leave issue to the courts, if necessary.

Ever since she began working at the airport office in February, 1971, Mrs. Herrala has fought for her rights. She successfully fought a regulation prohibiting women from heavy lifting jobs and became the first female Postal Service employee in the country to take on the job. She also battled a regulation prohibiting women employees from driving trucks on the air mail field and driving ramp.

"I got really angry about that one and led to get a driving permit," Mrs. Herrala recalled. "I just went over to the permit office and told them they'd have to give me a permit right away because I was badly needed on the driving ramp. With permit in hand, what could they do?"

AND FINALLY, she fought a rule that said pregnant employees were unfit to work at the job eight weeks before the birth of the child. She was given a light-duty assignment and allowed to continue working almost to the day of her daughter's birth.

Mrs. Herrala, a Michigan State University graduate who is currently working on a law degree, says she will continue to take on Postal Service officials in her one-woman war against discrimination. At the moment, company and employee appear to be at a deadlock. Mrs. Herrala says she will return to work before May only if the office establishes a day care center for her child and children of other employees.

"That way the parents could go into the day care center on their lunch hour and make the child feel that he is still a part of the family," Mrs. Herrala said.

Mrs. Herrala said fellow employees are backing her all the way. "I don't want to have to say to my kids," Mrs. Herrala said, "that I was silent on the issues."

You can paint laminate but it loses special properties

Dear Dorothy: I have a green laminated plastic counter top and would like to paint or stain it another color. Is this possible? — Geraldine Mendelsohn

I'm not sure you realize what you're proposing. Once your top is painted or stained, it no longer has the properties of laminated plastic. You won't be able to put hot dishes on it, nor fresh foods, nor will it tolerate moisture. Having given that gloomy (but accurate!) assessment, the answer is yes, it can be painted or stained.

What I'd recommend you consider is sending to the manufacturer for a different color counter-top kit. The instructions make installing it sound entirely rational for any moderately handy person. If you don't take to this, I'd urge you to develop a quick attachment to green.

Dear Dorothy: I like to wrap steaks for the freezer in heavy-duty foil. However, the foil occasionally gives way and the meat is exposed to air and, therefore, freezer burn. Is there some other way of wrapping? — Mildred Pickrell

It helps to put a piece of foil around the bony part of a steak, then wrap over the whole thing. I save large plastic bags to tuck these packages in. Then there's no worry about the foil ripping. Roasts can be disguised with basting, onions and so on, but steaks are on their own. So it's a must that they be wrapped with extra care.

Dear Dorothy: You may be interested in how I got some fiberglass particles out of some garments. I put them into a granite pan and covered them with vinegar. They were left this way for three days and then rinsed in clear water, and then laundered like any other load. — Audrey Larmore Glad this worked for you — but I confess the process you used is a mystery to me.

For their 6 p.m. candlelight wedding the bride wore a gown made by a friend, Millie Goebbert, in sate peau with reembodyered Alencon lace and seed pearl trim. A crown of lace held her fingertip veil and she carried an all white cascade bouquet.

LYNN DOWELL, Rockford, Alpha Delta Pi sorority sister of the bride, was matron of honor. ## Mistrial declared

Hung jury in Middleton civil suit

by BARRY SIGALE

A mistrial was declared Monday in the $1.2 million civil suit against Dr. James G. Middleton, convicted Des Plaines physician, when a Circuit Court jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

The seven-woman, five-man jury was summoned by Judge George Schaller at 4:50 p.m., 5½ hours after beginning deliberations. The judge asked the jury foreman if the panel had reached a verdict. "No," was the reply. Schaller ordered the jurors to meet for another hour, but they remained deadlocked.

Middleton was charged by Lynn Nelson, 27, with drugging and sexually assaulting her Feb. 7, 1970. During the three-day trial, Mrs. Nelson testified that Middleton's actions caused her physical and mental stress.

MRS. NELSON, who lived in Carpentersville at the time of the incident and now lives in Matthews, N.C., was not in the courtroom when the mistrial was declared.

Her attorney, Patrick Mahoney, would not comment on whether she plans to ask for a new trial.

Middleton, 48, seemed pleased with the jury's findings and said he was confident Mrs. Nelson would not seek a new trial. He said she perjured herself during the trial and predicted that alleged contradictions in her testimony would practically assure a successful appeal of his 1972 conviction of deviate sexual assault.

"I've got an absolute appeal now," he said, adding that he believed the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education "would feel compelled to give me back my license."

MIDDLETON WAS sentenced to 5 to 10 years in prison on the assault conviction and later received a four-year jail term for federal explosives and firearms violations. He is free on appeal.

Mrs. Nelson charged in the civil suit that her voice deepened and hair grew all over her body from the injection of male hormones. She sought $1,220,000 in damages.

In his defense, Middleton, acting as his own attorney, said he did not assault

Mrs. Nelson, and said no medication could cause the symptoms described by Mrs. Nelson.

In his closing remarks Monday, Middleton said information presented during the trial was "concealed, false or misrepresented."

He said there was "not one iota of tes-

Auto-sticker sales rise for December

Buffalo Grove sold almost 400 more vehicle stickers in December 1974 than during the same period in 1973.

Figures show 2,189 stickers were sold last year as compared with 1,791 for the 1973 period. Of the 1974 total, 2,142 were for passenger cars, 29 for trucks and 13 for motorcycles.

In December 1973, 1,763 auto, 17 truck and 4 motorcycle stickers were sold.

Village finance director Richard Glueckert said $44,500 has been generated from 1975 sales of vehicle stickers thus far.

Statistics for the fiscal year ending April 30 indicate 3,147 in total sales, but the figure also includes 1974 stickers that were sold in the current fiscal period, Village Clerk Verna Clayton said.

GLUECKERT SAID the increase in sales probably is due to a population increase, but said revenues were just about "keeping pace" with the budget projection of $101,000 in 1975 sticker incomes.

He said the bulk of sticker sales comes in the first two weeks of February.

Buffalo Grove residents have until Feb. 15 to purchase and display vehicle stickers.

Stickers may be purchased at the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd., Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

In addition, special purchase hours have been scheduled from 7-9 p.m. Thursday Feb. 6 and Feb. 13.

Fees are $10 for automobiles and $5 for motorcycles. A fee of $15 is charged for trucks under 5,500 pounds while stickers for trucks in excess of that weight cost $30.

Crime compensation

What are the major changes in the Illinois Crime Victims Compensation Act?

Any person related to the victim of a crime of violence, even though he was not dependent on the victim for his support, is now eligible for reimbursement of funeral and medical expenses which he paid for the victim. Another amendment authorizes the filing of claims for as little as $200.

Three more file for park election

Three persons filed nominating petitions before the deadline Monday, bringing the total to five candidates running in the April 15 Buffalo Grove Park Board election.

Filing Monday were Richard T. Lapham, 4 Stonegate Ct.; Harvey Foster, 2 Chenault Rd.; and one-term incumbent Eugene Murry, 643 Maple Dr. The candidates will be seeking six-year terms on the park board.

Eugene Branski, 47, of 529 White Pine Rd., a newcomer, filed earlier this month for one of the two seats.

The fifth candidate, Park Comm. William J. Kiddie, 315 Cherrywood, announced last month he would run for a second term. Kiddie is board vice president.

Planning a short trip? Agent can help

"I use a travel agent when I'm going on a long vacation, but I never call him for a short trip," a friend confided to us recently.

Why not? Your travel agent is there to serve you on the short trips too — and to save you a lot of time and trouble.

For example, an agent can help with airline reservations. Just call the nearest travel agency whether your air trip is a quick hop or a longer jet ride. They will take care of everything. All you have to do is pick up the tickets. There is no fee, of course, because travel agents get a commission from the airline on every ticket.

Travel lore

by Clare Wright
TRAVEL EDITOR

Travel agents' offices are great places for browsing, too, and they always like prospective travelers to stop in for free brochures and advice — even if the trips are just in the dream stage.

Here are some suggestions for picking the right travel agent and using his specialized service:

- The best way to find a good travel agent is to ask friends and relatives to recommend one who satisfied them.

- When you are planning a trip, be as specific as possible in telling the agent your requirements and budget.

- Make sure you understand the terms and conditions of your agreement, especially cancellation provisions.

- Sightseeing tours differ in extent and detail. Establish from the start whether it is a half-day or full-day tour or just a "drive-by." Also, find out if admission charges are included.

- Check with your travel agent about climate and temperatures at your planned destination. If it is a trip abroad, ask about foreign currency exchange, passports, inoculations, visas, and other information about the countries you will visit.

- Discuss the kind of clothes you should take with you.

- Get a full description of facilities you will be using, such as hotels, and whether meals are included.

- See that vouchers and tickets match the itinerary you purchased.

- Check with particular care any travel agent who offers you cut-rate tickets or lower-than-normally-priced travel arrangements. Be especially leery of airline tickets offered in places other than a reliable travel agency or an airline office. You may be getting involved in a risky or illegal deal.

- Ask the travel agent to justify such terms as "luxury" or "deluxe" for the accommodations you will be using.

- Ask for the identity of the airline participating in any tour. Make sure its schedules regularly serve the areas in which you are interested. Be on your guard if you are asked to join a club or the like — or to sign a predated membership form. Some shady charter flights may never materialize.

- Remember that a travel agent can serve you much better if he or she knows something about you. Are you the beer or champagne type — or something in the middle? Do you like to meet people — or do you prefer to browse on your own? Are you a culture buff or a gourmet? The more the travel agent knows about your interests, the better trip you will have.

One more thing — when you return home from a tour or vacation planned by an agent, be sure to let them know what you thought of the trip — good or bad.

There is approximately one travel agent for every 30,000 persons in the country and the competent ones are much more than just ticket sellers. They are specialists in all kinds of vacations and travel — and you and I need them!

PERSONALIZED vacations, whether they are in the sun or at a mountain ski lodge, come in all sizes at your nearest travel agency, where advice and services are free.

Vacation should be 'flexible'

Island vacations are like stretch binkins — they should be flexible enough to cover everything, but allow for individual differences.

The new French Caribbean Flexi-Plans designed by Air France offer travelers a combination of choices to suit themselves. The tours — "Sun 'n Swim," "Fly 'n Drive," and "A-La-Carte," provide organized sightseeing or touring by car, optional dinners, and three to seven days in each hotel on Guadeloupe or Martinique or both.

Northwest suburban travel agents have details on the Caribbean Flexi-Plan programs.

OUTSTANDING COUNTRY HOTELS
Two-hundred outstanding country hotels in Great Britain have been selected by the British Tourist Authority for commendation and inclusion in a special map.

The Tourist Authority imposes rigorous standards, but criteria are good value for money, good service and a good welcome. Hotels are in all price ranges.

The special map is available from the British Tourist Office, John Hancock Center, Chicago 60611.

UNTOUCHED — PRACTICALLY
Tumbes, the province in the extreme northwestern coast of Peru, is almost unvisited by tourists because of its isolation and lack of hotels. But it offers a tropical climate, a broad river cutting through jungles, wide palm-lined Pacific beaches and a variety of black oysters.

SCOUT MUSEUM
Visitors to New Jersey interested in the history and activities of the Boy Scouts will find that the Johnston Historical Museum in North Brunswick probably offers the biggest collection of scouting memorabilia in the world. Adjacent to the national office of the Boy Scouts of America, the museum has been visited by more than 500,000 persons. Admission is free.

Travel briefs

FOR ISLAND-HOPPERS

A new vacation tour to the 50th state, "Hawaii — Privacy in Paradise," enables travelers to combine the elegance of condominium living, special all-island car rental rates, discount booklets and lower individual mid-week tour-basing air fares to visit two or more islands for at least seven days.

Condominium accommodations feature one-, two- or three-bedroom units — each luxuriously furnished and equipped with wet bar, kitchen and private lanai overlooking the beach or a tropical garden. Rates start at $13 per person per night, double occupancy, and include a small sedan with unlimited mileage.

The condominiums are available in Honolulu and Waikiki on the Island of Oahu, and on the neighboring islands — Kauai, Maui and Hawaii.

Reservations can be made through your Northwest suburban travel agent.

Herald opinion

Pikarsky's pay is far too much

Talk of economy in government has passed right over the heads of the eight members of the Regional Transportation Authority, six of whom recently approved an $82,500 salary for the new chairman, Milton Pikarsky.

The money Pikarsky will be paid is a $32,500 raise from his post as CTA chairman and exceeds the governor's salary by the same amount. Even Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley will have to take a back seat to Pikarsky on the way to the bank.

Misgivings about the salary are rumbling through the suburban areas of the six counties included in RTA and are beginning to be heard in Springfield, State Sen. Robert Mitchler, R-Oswego, already has introduced a bill to cut the annual salary to $50,000.

The action may be too late, with a Democratic majority in the General Assembly and a four and a half-year salary agreement for Pikarsky. But the anger resulting from the salary announcement underlines the neglect on the part of the General Assembly in supervising the formation and establishment of the RTA.

The Herald has argued before that the state legislators should take a more active part in forming the RTA, particularly in view of the long delay in selection of a chairman. The General Assembly is remiss in side-stepping an issue involving new taxes and hundreds of millions of dollars in local, state and federal funds.

Supporters of the salary figure argue that it has to be high to allow room for top management and planning salaries under the executive. More likely, the $82,500 figure was selected out of vanity, because it surpasses the $80,000 paid to the chairman of the Metropolitan Transit Authority in New York. After all, Chicago should play second fiddle to no city in the nation in claiming leadership in the public transit field, they might argue.

We feel that the $50,000 a year Pikarsky earned with the CTA is more than enough, and he should want the prestige of the RTA job badly enough to settle for much less money. We suggest $50,000 plus $1 might be appropriate until he proves he is the right man for the job. The salary is subject to review each January, and raises could come when the RTA is a proven entity earning its own money.

We certainly support adequate pay for a good job, but $82,500 is too steep for an untested man in an unproven job. Because the RTA board members are appointed, and therefore virtually unaccountable to the public, we feel the legislators who created the agency ought to bear the responsibility for its actions and inactions.

In the past, especially under his predecessor, P. J. Cullerton, the office was notoriously unresponsive to the problems faced by suburban taxpayers.

Tully's program, called the Public Information Task Force, is designed to help property owners better understand their assessments. For all of us who pay property taxes, Tully's help can be invaluable. If everything works out tonight in Hoffman Estates, Tully's men ought to come back to other Northwest suburbs. They might even be welcomed again.

Senators' big cars

When it comes to conserving gasoline during the continuing energy crunch, the U.S. Senate is doing a poor job of providing leadership-by-example.

A report in the February issue of Road and Track magazine states that, of 95 cars belonging to Senators, 65 are classified as "large," 23 are "medium-sized" and only seven are rated "small" or "compact."

We'd never suggest that elected officials be required to buy certain sizes of cars. Once our tax dollars have entered their pockets, the decision's up to them.

But it would be a healthy leadership example if even a few of these Senators bought smaller cars. After all, there's an abundance of small gas-saving models available today at reasonable prices (plus rebates), and that personal prudence might save us all some gasoline.

What a big boy am I!

Reviews Caucus 'faults'

On Sunday, Jan. 19, I sat with the small band of local residents (far less than 1 per cent of our community) attending the Arlington Heights Village Caucus general meeting. Having been elected an Arlington Heights village trustee in 1969 from the Caucus slate, I guess there will always be a soft spot in my heart for this attempt at involving all village voters in the candidate selection/election process. It was a good try, and the originators of the Caucus concept should be congratulated for their efforts.

However, in recent years the procedural breakdowns of the Caucus have made the Arlington Heights Village Caucus as outmoded as yesterday's fashions. For a variety of reasons as Arlington Heights has increased in population, the village caucus system has found it to be more and more difficult to find people that are willing to come before the Caucus candidate selection committee. Also, as the village has grown in size, the caucus system has been unable to attract large numbers of local voters to the general meeting at which the final slate of candidates is selected. As a matter of fact, a quick calculation indicates that each time the Caucus general meeting is held, it becomes less representative of our community's growing population.

In my mind, the fallacies of the Arlington Heights Village Caucus are as follows:

- It is a practical matter to rig the candidate selection committee, thereby assuring that the individuals selected to appear before the general meeting will be favorable to certain issues, organizations, or geographical areas.

Fence post letters to the editor:

- In recent years, we have seen that the general meeting can be packed with supporters for one or more of the candidates. Even though electioneering has been specifically prohibited in the Village Caucus bylaws, candidates that have been nominated by the selection committee or know they will be nominated from the floor do little to disguise their electioneering activities. In this most recent Village Caucus episode, I was contacted directly by one Caucus candidate, through a third party by another candidate, and heard one week prior to the Caucus general meeting that an individual was mounting a campaign to be nominated from the floor. This practice certainly is unfair to those candidates selected by the Caucus selection committee that do not "play the game" of pre-general meeting campaigning or those candidates that do not have a base of organizational support, and the gamesmanship is absolutely unfair to the unsuspecting voter of Arlington Heights.

- The village caucus system has prevented many qualified independent candidates from seeking a position on the village board. They are confused and awe-struck by the powerful arrangement and approach of the Caucus. In this regard, rather than encouraging men and women to seek elective positions, the Village Caucus has stifled active, individual participation.

- The Village Caucus has not paid adequate attention to representing all geographical areas of our fast growing community. As the village boundaries have expanded to the north and to the south, interests and concerns have become greatly diversified due to varying degrees of flooding, traffic, development, transportation needs, and the list goes on and on. Yet the most recent slate of candidates put forth by the Village Caucus is a northside slate. In my mind, this should not occur.

I cite the above problems not to take a poke at any of the Caucus organizers or present Caucus candidates. On the contrary, I commend them for their interest and effort. However, it is my belief that the time has come for a change, and we should all work to bring about this change.

I wholeheartedly recommend that the village be divided into eight districts and the individual trustees be elected by the voters of their respective districts. This could guarantee equitable geographical representation and accountability. The needs of all sections of our community would be adequately vocalized through the district's trustee, and he or she would be in closer communication contact with his or her constituents. In my plan, the village president would continue to run on a village-wide basis and would be responsible to all of the people.

We must encourage fair representation within Arlington Heights. I do not believe that the Responsive Citizens Caucus (Village Caucus) any longer allows us this opportunity. Therefore, during the coming months and year, I will be doing what I can to bring about participation by independent candidates on a district representation basis.

'Energy tips'? That's old news!

In the past year I have heard and seen 347 suggestions on how to conserve energy, neatly balanced by 347 television commercials for new electrical gadgets. Being an instinctive conservationist and habitual skinflint, I have ignored the commercials and I continue to clean my teeth, comb my hair and curvy the cat manually. I also ignore most of the energy-saving tips because they don't tell me anything I don't already know.

On a recent list from my Congressman there is, for instance, the suggestion to turn out the lights when leaving a room. I taught my children that, even before they were housebroken, and they were very good about dousing the lights as they exited the living room. Of course, this left the rest of the family in the dark half of the time and I think their willingness to turn out lights was for the joy of hearing an older brother or sister yell, "Hey, dumbhead, I'm trying to read." They also left their father in the dark while he was shaving and me blacked out with my hands in the dishpan. Another of my Congressman's suggestions is "refrain from opening refrigerator unless necessary." I hardly ever open the refrigerator simply because I'm bored and can't think of anything else to do, although I think the kids did when they were little. It was as though Walt or John would say to their friends, "Hey guys, wanna play ball?" and the guys would say, "Naw," and after a succession of "Naw's" to other "Y'wannas," one of my kids would say, "Hey, I know, let's go to my house and open the refrigerator door." And everybody'd yell, "Yeah!"

The after-dinner hour was another prime time for refrigerator-door opening. I'd barely have the kitchen cleaned up when the parade started as one after another would open the refrigerator door and stare into the box as though memorizing the contents. When I'd ask what they were looking for they'd say, "I dunno, something." Five minutes later or during the next commercial, whichever came first, they'd start the same thing all over again, apparently hoping that their fairy godmother had changed the inventory since the last time they looked.

My favorite on the Congressman's list is Number Seven: keep freezer packed to capacity.

Since I do not earn a legislator's salary and cannot vote myself a raise every year, I find it a bit difficult to meet his suggestion. However, I don't want to displease the man lest he get mad and vote himself another raise so I am doing the best I can. Tomorrow I will buy six loaves of bread to complete the packing-to-capacity task and I will then have 13 pounds of hamburger, six loaves of bread and 150,000 ice cubes in my freezer.

He also suggests I be alert to overcooling in public places and this I can do for my man in Washington. I will be obediently alert to chilly places and get goose pimples as fast as possible.

Now if he'll be just as alert to overwarming as I am to overcooling, we'll both be happy.

Stop sign's needed for Schaumburg Rd.

As residents of Weathersfield Quadros, we'd like to make a petition for a stop at Salem and Schaumburg Roads. It is almost impossible to get access to Schaumburg Road.

Also when are lights going to be installed at Golf and Barrington Roads?

Another suggestion, put Salem-Jonas Road through to Golf. This will make access for those in our areas without going through the residential areas of Hoffman Estates.

Stop "U" turns at Spring Mill Road and Rte. 72. Your life is at stake here! Doria Jurs Schaumburg

The almanac

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 28, the 28th day of 1975 with 337 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

Concert pianist Artur Schnabel was born Jan. 28, 1889.

On this day in history:

- In 1878, the first commercial telephone switchboard was put in operation in New Haven, Conn. It served 12 subscribers.

- In 1915, the U.S. Coast Guard was established under legislation passed by Congress.

- In 1932, a song symbolizing the plight of millions of depression-hit Americans was sweeping the United States. Its title: "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?"
- In 1955, Congress passed a resolution authorizing President Dwight D. Eisenhower to use armed force to defend Formosa against possible attack by Communist Chinese on the mainland from which the Nationalists had been driven in 1949.

A thought for the day: World War II Supreme Commander Dwight D. Eisenhower, later president, said, "Humility must always be the portion of any man who receives acclaim earned in the blood of his followers and the sacrifices of his friends."

The lighter side

'Milk snobs' to impress us

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — By the year 2000, an economics professor predicts, you may have to go to the zoo to see a dairy cow and milk may be sold as a delicacy.

I suspect this soothsaying savant was deliberately laying it on a bit thick to dramatize declining dairy herds. Still, he did give us some things to think about.

What he gave me to think about primarily was the prospect of yet another type of connoisseur emerging from the ranks of epicurism — the milk snob.

For if milk does become rare and expensive enough to be regarded as a delicacy, all of your gourmet friends will be impressing you with it.

The serving of milk then will become encrusted with rituals and taboos, observance of which marks one as a true sophisticate.

I can hardly wait to attend one of the intimate little dinner parties given by my gourmet friend, Sam Spatula. I can see it all now!

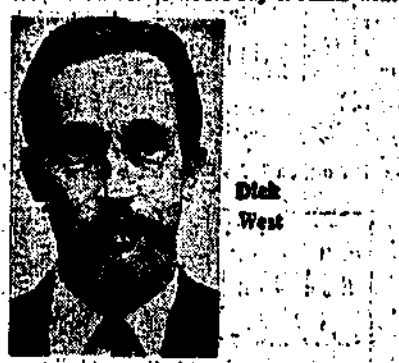

At the outset of the meal, one of the guests takes a sip from his milk goblet, rolls his eyes heavenward and exclaims,

"That's an excellent milk, Sam! What is it?"

Spatula smiles knowingly. "It's a Borden's 1975. My milk dealer was able to get his hands on several cases back when it first came from the dairy and was prudent enough to freeze it."

"Now, of course, it's treasured like the crown jewels but he will let a few of his favorite customers have a pint every now and then as a special favor."

The guest beams at having his good taste verified. "I would say it ranks with a Sealtest 1974 which I had the good fortune to find at an elegant Little Dairy Queen on a recent evening."

"It's the wax on the inside of the cartons that distinguishes a vintage Borden's, giving it that piquancy that is so provocative, yet mellow," Spatula purrs.

Another guest holds his goblet up to the light, whirls it around and observes the way droplets cling to the sides.

"Exquisite homogenization," he intones, "but maybe a split second too much. Pasteurization, I would say, it came from a handmilked three-year-old purebred Holstein."

Spatula nods sagely. "Served at room temperature, it lacks the full-bodied bouquet you get from a Guernsey. Judging from the rich color, robust texture and subtle aftertaste, the pasture where the cow grazed contained a lot of clover."

A third guest says, "I thought you were supposed to serve buttermilk with red-meat dishes."

There is a moment of shocked silence as the other guests recover from this gaffe, then the host tactfully changes the subject.

Gifted-student programs: are they adequate?

Funding limited, ideas are new -- but encouraging signs are there by LINDA PUNCH

Second of two parts

Educating the gifted child is a source of frustration for most school officials.

Faced with public apathy and limited funds, many school districts are hampered in their efforts to meet the needs of exceptional youngsters. In most North-west suburban districts, formal programs for the gifted were begun only in the last five years.

In recent years, the gifted programs were neglected because programs for the retarded and physically handicapped were mandated by state law. School districts were required to channel their energies and money into special-education programs.

BUT INTEREST in gifted programs is growing. "A little bit more each year," said Marilyn Melaner, director of the North Suburban Area Service Center for gifted and talented children. Most area school districts have started formal programs or have programs in the planning stages.

The availability of state grants — about $2 for every student in the district — has helped many districts take their first steps toward gifted programs. Yet, one educator notes that the state money, available for a limited number of years, "is seed money. You have to have the backing of your school board for a strong, continuing program."

Formal gifted programs are found only on the elementary level. Once a student progresses to junior high or high school, accelerated programs are offered to all students and there is less need for additional enrichment courses.

MOST OF the area gifted programs are devoted to expanding the experience of the youngsters.

"Some teachers feel that if a child is gifted, all they have to do for enrichment is give more of the same work. Instead of five pages of math, give him 10," said Mary Lu Bluffetto, director for the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 gifted program. "We try to get away from that and give them more diverse activities."

In smaller districts, such as Prospect Heights Dist. 23 and River Trails Dist. 28, a special teacher travels from school to school for weekly sessions with gifted students. In addition to their regular studies, the youngsters work on independent study projects and special units.

"I try to work out a project based on each child's interest — something outside the regular classroom work. I want to keep these students from being bored or stifled," said Nadine Armata, Dist. 23 gifted teacher.

GIFTED STUDENTS in that district also work on group projects in economics, ecology, racial problems, oceanography and geography. Projects range from building homemade robots to producing a film strip and tape on ecology. Thirty-five of the district's 1,696 students are in the program.

In Dist. 26, gifted teacher Shari Zell concentrates on simulation games, brain teasers and other projects "to give the child exposure to thinking skills." The program involves about 90 of the district's 2,721 pupils.

"We've discussed Plato, tried to solve the problems in an imaginary community — a whole variety of things never done in the regular classroom," she said. "The kids get in fantastic discussions and arguments."

In larger districts — where more funds and staff are available — gifted programs are more elaborate. Arlington Heights Dist. 25 has three special teachers who visit the various schools to set up special projects for gifted youngsters.

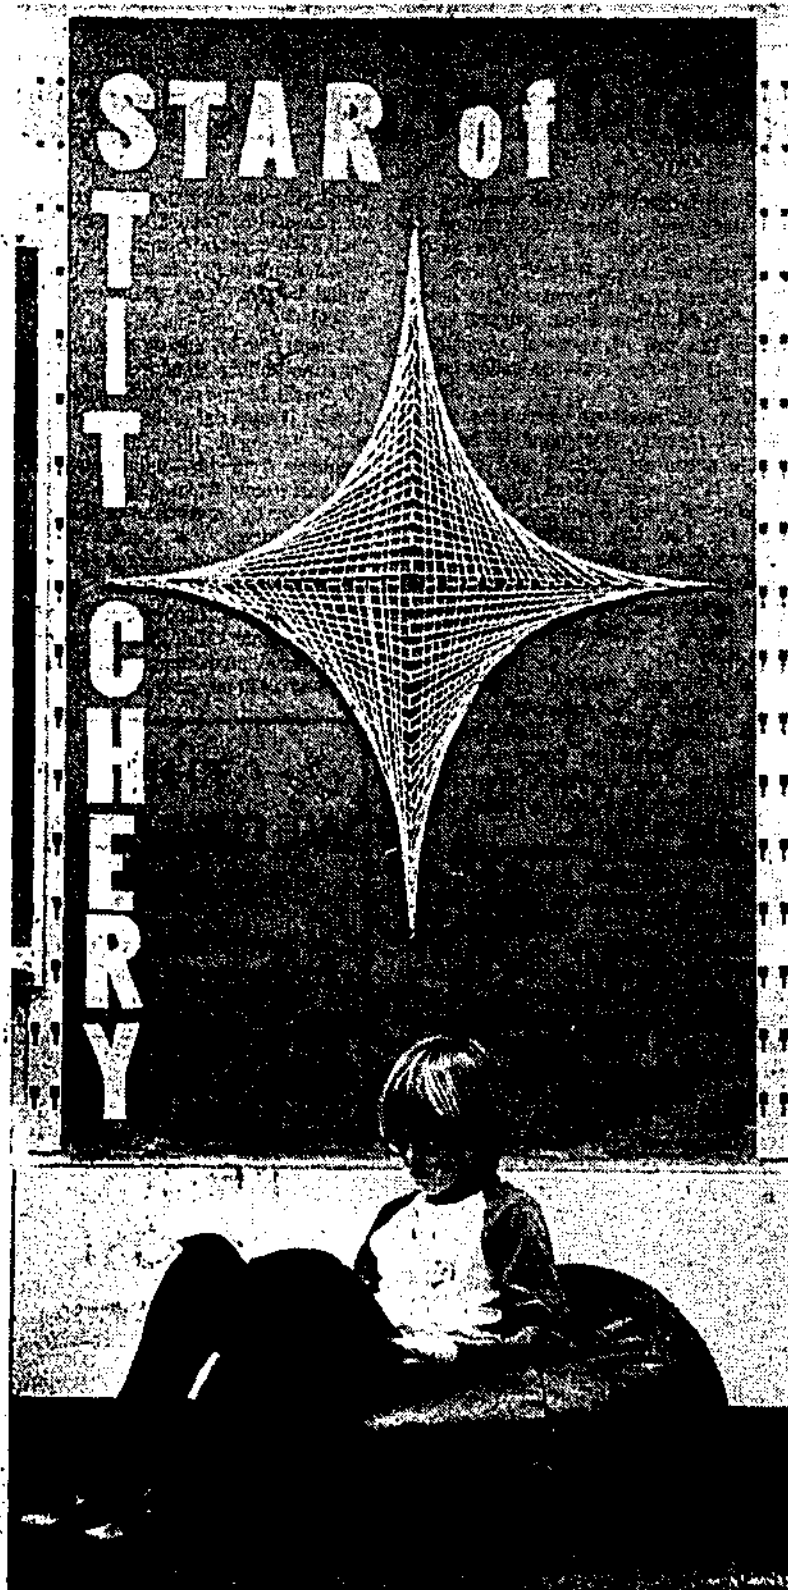

DIST. 25 officials have also made an effort to get the gifted youngsters involved in activities outside the school — from afternoon visits to a horsebreeding farm to a week-long stay at an archaeological site in Southern Illinois. On that trip, a young boy uncovered a 3,500-year-old clay pot — the only one found at the site.

"We're trying to expose these kids to a lot more experiences. We're not trying to get them through high school studies before they finish eighth grade," said teacher Jim Voris.

Dist. 25 students have also sat in on high school interior design classes and anatomy classes at Harper College. But teacher Norm Soderstrom notes that "we tell the Harper teachers not to set up anything special. The kids don't have to get great globs of knowledge, we just want them to have a different experience."

Dist. 25 gifted teachers work with more than 500 of the district's 9,381 students.

IN DIST. 15, school officials took a different approach by creating separate classrooms for the gifted instead of giving independent studies within the regular classroom. The district picks up three-fourths of the total cost of the gifted program.

"We wanted to take the kids out of the regular program to enrich them. The gifted have a variety of needs like any other children — some gifted would find it frustrating to be put in 'independent study,'" Miss Muffoletto said.

Special classrooms for fifth and sixth grade gifted students are located in four of the district's elementary schools. Junior high students are able to enroll in enriched and accelerated courses while primary students work in an individualized program.

MISS MUFFOLETTO notes that the gifted are not "totally isolated" from other students despite the special programs since they usually attend regular music and physical education classes.

The gifted classroom has helped teachers uncover learning problems not discovered in the regular classroom, Miss Muffoletto said, adding "it's not unusual for a child in a gifted class to also use the learning disabilities resource teacher."

"I had one boy who told me he didn't read like other kids. We found out that he reads sentences backwards and then memorizes them in reverse," she said.

MOST GIFTED teachers see the program benefiting not only the talented student but also the average youngster.

"The program overlaps into the regular classroom," one principal said. "A gifted teacher starts doing something out of the ordinary and the first thing you know it begins to spread. Regular classroom teachers start using special classroom projects."

These same gifted teachers would like to see the programs expanded to meet the needs of all age groups and talents. They note that most gifted programs are still aimed primarily at the older students with intellectual or academic talents.

"We only have a gifted class a half day each week," one woman said. "It isn't enough but it's all we can afford. And it's certainly better than nothing."

Ban on corporal punishment sought

by WANDALYN RICE
The Illinois General Assembly will be asked this session to ban corporal punishment of students in elementary and secondary schools.
State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, and Cook County Schools Supt. Richard Martwick announced at a press conference Monday that they are supporting a bill that Jaffe will introduce to ban physical punishment in schools. State law has no provision on corporal punishment and court cases indicate only the punishment must be "reasonable."
Jaffe said he is introducing the bill because, "It's always been my feeling that we do live in a violent society and that you don't curb violence by using it as a teaching technique." He said bodily punishment is "a copout method" and added, "I think people realize (banning it) is an idea whose time has come."

Jaffe said the bill has received the support of the American Civil Liberties Union. He said the bill's chances of passing are good. He said banning physical punishment would not prevent a teacher from acting in self-defense if attacked or in defense on another student.
MARTWICK SAID he supports the bill because he believes it will improve, not hinder, discipline in the schools. He said, "An educator who needs to strike a student has already lost the discipline battle. What we need is strong discipline, not strong arms."

He said schools could use warnings, extra assignments, parent conferences, detention, suspension of expulsion as disciplinary measures. He said a recent survey showed that 54 per cent of the school districts in Illinois either prohibit or restrict the use of corporal punishment while 45 per cent have no policy on the subject.
Martwick said one downstate school district recently was found to be using cattle prods on students and cited the case of Dwyer School in Arlington Heights where last summer he charged that the staff was hitting students with large wooden paddles. "It is only when we see occasional headline-making cases such as that which occurred last summer that people become aware of the problem," he said.

John Whipple, director of the school, was cleared in November of charges of child abuse made by Martwick. The Northwest Education Cooperative governing board has adopted a policy requiring written consent from a parent before a child can be paddled.
Martwick said Massachusetts and New Jersey already have passed laws banning bodily punishment, along with the cities of New York, Washington D.C., Pittsburgh, Baltimore and San Francisco. The Chicago Board of Education also bans corporal punishment.
SEVERAL LOCAL school officials said Monday they do not believe it would cause any problems for their schools to ban physical punishment. Sup. John Friedlund of River Trails Dist. 26 said the district has a policy which says corporal punishment is not to be used without parental consent. The policy, he said, "has held corporal punishment to an absolute minimum." He added that a law would have a "very positive effect" on schools.

Joseph Kiszka, deputy superintendent of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, said, "It would have very little effect in this district if corporal punishment were banned." He said the district prohibits teachers from physical punishment of children except when it is absolutely necessary for the protection of the child or other children. The district also bans "corrective procedures that result in extreme fatigue or humiliation," he said.
"As long as a teacher can defend himself or another child, then saying there is no corporal punishment would have no effect at all in our district."

Burlington commuters hit by morning walkoffs

Thousands of Chicago commuters were temporarily stranded Monday as surprise walkoffs by thousands of shopcraft workers hit the Burlington North R.R. and two smaller lines.
Court orders sent strikers back to their posts within hours at Burlington and the Louisville and Nashville (L&N) R.R. The strike continued at the Chesapeake and Ohio (C&O) R.R. in Michigan, Ohio and Virginia, where a spokesman said a continued strike could halt the line's trains in Michigan.

The strike was called late Sunday by four unions against the Burlington in protest against lack of progress in nationwide negotiations in Washington between the nation's railroads and craft unions.

Burlington workers returned to the job after U.S. District Court judges in Chicago and St. Paul, Minn., issued temporary restraining orders. The threat of court action sent 2,000 L&N workers back to their jobs.

U.S. District Court Judge Sam Perry restrained Burlington employees from striking until 6 a.m. Feb. 5 and set a hearing for Feb. 3. He ruled the unions violated a law that bans strikes by railway employees while federal mediators are attempting to bring about a settlement of a contract dispute.

The impact of the quickie strikes was felt chiefly in the Chicago area where the Burlington was forced to cancel early morning commuter service from more than a dozen western suburbs.

New Lottery enticement

Illinois Lottery officials announced Monday a special $1 dollar a ticket game that will give the grand prize winner $50,000 a year for the rest of his or her life.

The Lottery will begin the special contest on Feb. 11 for 12 weeks, selling the $1 tickets in addition to the current 50-cent game. Each Friday between Feb. 21 and May 9 the lottery will hold a special drawing to announce winning numbers on the $1 tickets. Prizes will range from $40 to $100,000. Each ticket holder will have 16 numbers or six chances to win a prize.

At the end of 12 weeks, the grand prize winner will be chosen for the $50,000-a-year prize.

Lottery Supt. Ralph Batch said he expects the new game to increase lottery revenues by 25 per cent. He said if the game is successful, the lottery will probably offer other special short time games in the future. He said $1 tickets, which go on sale Feb. 11, can be purchased anywhere 50-cent tickets are sold.

Rep. Kluczynski dies

U. S. Rep. John C. Kluczynski, D-Ill., who served more than 24 years in Congress, died Monday of a heart attack in Chicago.

Kluczynski, 70, was elected to the House of Representatives in 1950 by voters in the Southwest Side district of Chicago where he lived all his life. He served on the House Public Works Committee and the Select Committee on Small Business. He was also Chairman of the Committee on the House Restaurant. He also served 16 years in the Illinois General Assembly.

Gov. Daniel Walker must within the next five days declare a special election to fill the vacancy created by Kluczynski's death. The election must be held by May 27.

No link in slayings

Carbondale Police Chief George Kennedy, directing twin homicide investigations, said Monday there was no apparent connection between the apparent suffocation death of an elderly widow and a young Southern Illinois University coed.

The body of the SIU student, identified as Theresa M. Clark, 22, of Lemont, was found Monday morning in her apartment on the east side of town.

Kennedy said the body bore multiple stab wounds of the chest and abdomen but no weapon was found. The victim was identified as a graduate student in speech pathology and audiology.

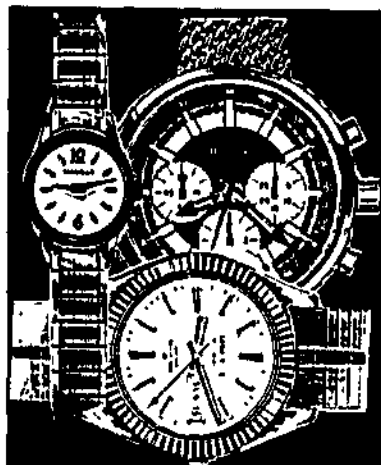

The body of Mrs. Cary Leo Reischauer, 77, was found Sunday night in her home on the northwest side. Kennedy said a preliminary autopsy report indicated she died of suffocation but declined to say how she was suffocated. He said the woman may have been slain during a burglary.

Safety chief resigns

Rachel Scott resigned Monday as Illinois' industrial safety director after learning Gov. Daniel Walker plans to turn the job back to the federal government.

Miss Scott, 27, who was appointed to the state job Dec. 2, said her resignation is effective Friday. In Springfield, an aide to the governor confirmed the industrial-safety program will be turned back to the federal government, possibly as early as July.

The federal government handles job-site safety inspections for all states, except those who opt to do the job themselves. Illinois began its own safety-inspection program in November 1973, but so far has gotten poor marks for its effort from the U.S. Dept. of Labor.

Fleck: Myers can be All-America

by MIKE KLEIN
Swimming Editor

His friends know Steve Myers as Rusty, the youngster's nickname. And those who chart Illinois high school swimming will soon recognize that's a misnomer. For Myers is anything but "rusty" when placed in water.

"Myers used to swim for the Elgin YMCA. He was a sprinter and you could tell he has gut power," said St. Viator swimming coach John Fleck. "The only thing he's lacking is speed. Once he matures and gets that speed, then he's in business."

Steve Myers

St. Viator, which hardly ever swims dual meets, cleaned up on visiting St. Patrick, 58-25, this past Saturday afternoon.

And if you haven't already guessed, Myers, only a freshman, deserves weighty applause. Not two months past his 14th birthday, Myers won 500 freestyle in a fast 5:05.6.

"He can certainly be one of the best in state as a senior, maybe an All-American," Fleck said of Myers. "Our goal is to get him under five minutes this year."

That 5:05.6 clocking thrust Myers from fifth into third place among all long distance freestylers on the Paddock Swimming Honor Roll. Myers entered the St. Patrick duel with a previous 5:11.0 clocking.

Mark Rohl

Cutting away more than five seconds, Myers surpassed sophomore teammate Dan Peonski, now fifth at 5:07.3. Ahead of Myers are Hersey junior Chris Tague, 4:50.4, and Arlington senior Joe Nitch, 4:51.3.

Myers has four weeks until districts and five before the state meet to get below Fleck's announced five-minute goal in 500 freestyle. But his concentration can't stop there.

Against St. Patrick, Myers also finished runner-up in 200 free, 1:56.0, as teammate Mark Rohl's 1:51.3 established a Lions' sophomore record. And Rohl strengthened his third ranked Paddock Honor Roll time by six-tenths.

More remarkable for Rohl, he went from unranked to second in 100 backstroke by swimming 50.0, another Viator soph mark. Prospect's Chris Prinslow leads the Paddock area at 58.7, his time this past weekend against Hersey.

From beginning-to-end, the Lions stopped St. Patrick with youth. Mark Nelles was Viator's only senior point winner as freshmen and sophomores dominated.

onski won 200 medley relay in 1:49.5. Nelles plus sophomores Rohl, Jon Newcomer and Dan Peonski won 400 freestyle relay in 3:29.2, eight-tenths faster than their previous first place area clocking.

Sophomores Newcomer in 200 individual medley, 2:11.3, plus Dan Peonski in 100 freestyle, 53.2, were also triumphant.

Almost lost in that youth shuffle is double winner Steve Rogers, a junior. Rogers' personal best 1:07.9 in 100 breaststroke ties three other swimmers for fifth in the area.

And Rogers, with 58.7, won a judge's decision over Newcomer, supposedly 58.5, for top spot in 100 butterfly.

Fleck talked with enthusiasm about his youngsters who've defeated Brother Rice, Arlington and St. Patrick. They show dual meet losses against powers Fenwick and Marmion.

Hersey, Forest View also win

Cardinals defeat Meadows, 103-69

by MIKE KLEIN
Swimming Editor

Second, third and fourth.

That's where the battle remains in Mid-Suburban League varsity standings after Arlington likely ensured its leadership through the dual meet season by defeating Rolling Meadows, 103-69, on Friday afternoon.

The Cardinals of coach Don Andersen are 3-0 with duals against Wheeling and Forest View left before MSL finals on Friday, Feb. 14, in Buffalo Grove's Aquadome.

Top contenders for the next three spots are Hersey (4-1), Rolling Meadows (3-1) and Elk Grove (3-2).

In other weekend results, Forest View fought Wheeling to an eight-point win, 90-82, and Hersey beat Prospect, 95-78.

Rolling Meadows had the spirit but not the artillery against Arlington. The Cards assumed a 30-12 lead after three events and weren't to be caught.

They swept 200 medley relay as Rob Carstens, Diernan Mack, Dixon O'Brien and Don Stuhling won in 1:48.2. Arlington went two-three-four in 200 freestyle for nine points. Then O'Brien, 2:09.4, and Joe Nitch, 2:00.9, placed one-two in 200 individual medley for 18 points.

Meadows won five events and both freestyles in which the heavily favored Nitch did not compete for Arlington. Ken Stahnke won 200 free in 2:00.9 and Glenn Adams took the 500 in 5:37.2.

There was a strange ending in Adams' victory. Card soph Tony Hahn had Adams beaten but lost count of his laps. Hahn began a 21st length. On the turn, he pushed off with both feet and lost by two-tenths.

It was enjoyable for Adams because he made the same mistake this season and lost to Prospect's Mark Halverson.

Meadows set two school records. Gary Grunwald won 50 freestyle in 23.5. And their 400 freestyle relay won in 3:24.4. Ken Stahnke, Rick Slevert, Tom Stahnke and Grunwald comprised that quartet.

Tom Stahnke also won 100 butterfly in 57.7.

Nitch took 100 freestyle in 51.1 and Arlington teammate Rob Carstens swam his fourth 59.3 clocking this season to win 100 backstroke. Other firsts were by Klerman Mack in 100 breaststroke, 1:06.4, and diver Jeff Munk, 225.95.

Arlington's third man scored in six events. And they had third-place points in seven-of-nine individual races. The Cards swept 100 backstroke with O'Brien, 1:02.1, and Doug Sandell, 1:03.8.

HUSKIES WIN FOURTH, 95-78

Prospect's Chris Prinslow and Brad Busse remained unbeaten in their specialties, but Hersey swept diving and won seven events during this battle for second place. Prospect is 2-3.

Prinslow moved into area backstroke leadership with a 58.7, one-half second faster than his previous best. And Busse, defending Mid-Suburban champion, won 100 breaststroke in 1:08.9. Prinslow also tied Hersey's Tim Wheeler for first in 50 freestyle, 24.3.

But the Huskies weren't minus their own good efforts. Wheeler, Dick Hawes, John Sitter and Chris Tague established a 3:29.4 school record in 400 freestyle. Their previous mark was 3:31.0 set this season at Arlington.

And led by Jeff Speakman's personal best 250.9, Hersey swept 13 diving points. Tim Brennan scored 253.3, also his highest, and Bill Cashmore placed third, 244.0.

Tague and Sitter were double winners. No surprise here, Tague won by 10 seconds with 1:48.5 in 200 freestyle. He took the 500 free in 4:52.3. Sitter won easily in 200 individual medley, 2:14.3, and 100 butterfly, 57.9.

Dick Hawes claimed Hersey's other winning points 61.8 in 100 freestyle.

FALCONS BY EIGHT, 90-82

Forest View, now 2-3 in duals, won both relays plus seven individual races during its 90-82 victory over Wheeling. The Wildcats, now 0-5, were in their closest MSL defeat.

Oke Pearson, Kevin Redig and Jim Rohn won twice for the Falcons. Pearson swept the 200 and 500 freestyles in 2:00.3 and 5:33.0. Redig captured 200 individual medley, 2:17.5, and 100 freestyle, 52.7.

Rohn's 175.15 won diving as did his 1:02.6 in butterfly. Mike Zahakaylo took backstroke in 1:03.1.

Zahakaylo, Jim Kantecki, Rohn and Mark Buczek won by two seconds in 200 medley relay, 1:51.6. Mark Oliver, Buczek, Pearson and Redig captured the 400 freestyle relay in 3:40.6.

Wheeling, which has just 10 upperclassmen but undefeated sophomores, had victories from Don Rothhaar in 50 freestyle, 24.6, plus Marty Geisler in breaststroke, 1:11.4.

Their second place medley relay of Dan Mackie, Geisler, Tony Lauber and Rothhaar set a school record, 1:53.0.

All three districts will begin at 9:30 a.m. with diving preliminaries. Diving finals and swimming events will be completed in a 2 p.m. session.

New Trier East of Winnetka will host the IHSA state finals on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 28 - March 1. Diving begins at 10 a.m. on Friday with swimming events at 4 p.m. State finals for all events are 1 p.m. the following afternoon.

Lass Excavating rolls to women's honors

Lass Excavating of the Beverly Ladies' Classic League struck the pot of gold Sunday night by topping 2810 total pins and 96 teams for honors in the Paddock Women's Bowling Tourney at Hoffman Lanes.

The winners hooked up with their opposition for the night — Striking Lanes — in a tremendous head-to-head duel that found Lass Excavating nipping runnerup Striking by a mere four pins at the wire.

The quintet of Emily Dragon, Betty Parkhurst, Louise Lass, Delores Harris and Jan Broderick cashed for the $203.28 first-place payoff behind games of 601, 504 and a clinching 925 plus 156 handicap pins.

Dragon paced the victors with a booming 248 final game and a 586 series — 76 pins over her 167 average. Steady support came from Parkhurst's 558 (48 pins over average), Lass' 549 (38 over) and Harris' 549 (five over) while Broderick contributed 478.

Striking Lanes rose to the occasion with exceptional balance as both Bretto Brelle and Lu Schoenberger hit identical 563's. Judy Drummond shot 556, Eunice Whitmore notched 542 and Alice Schroeder, close behind, with 534.

Hoffman Lanes finished a distant third with 2780 for a prize of $146.64 followed by the Champagne Ladies' 2778 for $112.80, Venus' 2773 for $90.24 and Bankers and One's 2758 for $78.93.

B & H Blueprint notched seventh place with 2741 for $67.88 while A. M. Al-freight and Cardinal Restaurant both hit 2724 for $50.76 each and the Lucky Strikes and Platypuses shared 10th with 2712 pins and $18.92 each.

Valquist didn't finish in the money, but earned $10 for rolling 890.

Slagle Witty rules mixed leagues

Slagle Witty of the Tuesday Nite Mixed League felt right at home Saturday evening.

The squad, comprised of Rose and Bill Witty and Beverly and Jerry Slagle all hit over average in the friendly confines of Hoffman Lanes to easily outdistance 63 Mixed League teams to earn the first-place $171.96 prize and Paddock Publications' Mixed League championship trophy.

The quartet rolled a resounding 2384 pin total at their home house including 382 handicap pins that handily trumped runnerup Spartimes' 2293 pinfall by a whopping 91 sticks.

Jerry Slagle was the biggest gun for the victors as he rolled a 225 opener en route to a booming 573 series — a full 90 pins over his 161 league average.

But the support was steady. Beverly rained home a 126 series that reached 31 pins over her 126 average. Rose fashioned a 126 that extended 36 pins over her 112 average and Bill was 25 pins over his 161 average with a 588 set.

Slagle Witty eclipsed their 600 average in each of the three games and wiped out the temporary lead by the Spartimes who achieved their success in the earlier squad.

Just 16 pins separated the second and sixth-place finishers in the Mixed League competition. The third-place Four Angels notched 2291 pins for a $91.71 paycheck while the Sand Ballers finished fourth with 2289 and a $74.32 payoff.

The Night Owls tipped 2270 pins for $57.32 and fifth place while Herring Roofing rounded out the top six with 2277 pins and $45.83. The Sesame Street Superstars earned $10 for their 748 game — the high score among teams not earning a monetary prize.

Low blood sugar can be cause for concern

I have hypoglycemia and would greatly appreciate any information you could send me about it. My oldest brother is a diabetic. My endocrinologist has me on a 1,000-calorie high protein diet.

The interesting thing about your diagnosis is your brother's diabetes. Sometimes hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) precedes the development of diabetes (high blood sugar).

In these instances the defect is really in the islets of Langerhans of the pancreas, the place where insulin is produced. Normally when the amount of sugar (glucose) in your small intestine rises after eating sweets the islets release an increased amount of insulin. Your body literally releases whatever amount of insulin you need to control the level of your blood sugar.

When the islets are defective they may release insulin too late, long after the peak sugar load. The result is the extra insulin, released into the bloodstream after the blood glucose level has already started to fall. The extra insulin drives the level lower still and hypoglycemia develops.

AS THE ISLETS become more defective, they fail to produce enough insulin. The defect literally progresses from producing too late to also producing too little. Then you have diabetes.

There are many factors related to low blood sugar, some are endocrine and others are related to diet. A lot of people get that diagnosis who have other conditions, including anxiety.

It is common to put people with this condition on a high protein diet. I presume your doctor thinks you are also overweight and is restricting your calories for that purpose. In general, even for patients with low blood sugar, I prefer a well-balanced diet, with plenty of bulk and relatively low in fat. So you need to be careful where you get the protein, since some protein foods are loaded with fat.

Do you think cancer can be cured when a person is in his or her 70's?

Of course, it depends not so much on age as the type of cancer and how far it has progressed. An early skin cancer, for example, can be removed with a complete cure. Cancer of the prostate can be controlled for years after it is first diagnosed. The success in control depends a lot on how early it is diagnosed.

The best aid you have to survival from cancer is finding the cancer early — before it has a chance to enlarge or spread. That means regular checkups, particularly for those who are more likely to have cancer. Early cancers found and treated can often be completely cured.

Win at bridge

Trump lead changes game plan

Here is another fairly simple Coffin hand. South finds himself in a sound four-spade contract. If all goes well he can discard one potential losing heart on dummy's king of diamonds and ruff his third club to wind up with enough tricks for his contract. But West has been unpleasant enough to open a trump. Now if West started with three trumps and can win the first two club leads, he will lead two more trumps and upset South's appecart.

South sees a way to prevent this if diamonds break 4-3. He starts by cashing his ace of diamonds to get out of dummy's way. Then he leads a low club. West puts up the nine of clubs in order to win the trick and leads back a trump. If he leads back the seven South must win with dummy's ace and follow in his hand with one of his high trumps. This will make it possible to get to dummy with the six spot later. If he leads low, dummy must win with the six.

Either way, South leads and ruffs a diamond; enters dummy with the last trump; ruffs another diamond and eventually gets two discards on the king and eight.

Stocks soar on record volume; Dow up 26

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices soared Monday in the heaviest trading in the 163-year history of the New York Stock Exchange. Investors responded to lower interest rates, government action on the economy and a reversal of the court ruling against IBM.

The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 26.05 points to 692.66. Volume during the six-hour session soared to 32,130,000 shares, eclipsing the old record of 31,730,000 shares during a six-hour session Aug. 16, 1971, the day after President Nixon declared a wage-price freeze to combat inflation. The Dow gained a record 32.93 that day.

Monday's Dow rise was the best since the closely watched average gained 28.39 Oct. 9, 1974, the week President Ford announced his economic program to fight inflation.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 2.39 to 75.37. The average price of a NYSE common share increased by 82 cents.

ANALYSTS SAID institutional activity was sparked by a combination of news. Many banks lowered the prime lending rate they charge key corporate customers to 9.5 per cent. There were indications the rate would go lower, possible to 7 per cent before long.

In addition, Wall Street was encouraged President Ford has prodded Congress to act on his economic-energy program to help the nation out of the recession.

A major factor in the rally, according to analysts, was a federal court decision late Friday in Denver that reversed an antitrust ruling and a $250.5 million damage judgment against IBM that had been won by Telex. The ruling could have a profound impact on other suits pending against IBM.

Texas Gas Transmission was the most active issue Monday, off 3/4 to 25 1/4 on 382,000 shares.

PRICES CLOSED higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by 20 cents. Volume totaled 3,250,000 shares, compared with 2,130,000 traded Friday.

In American Stock Exchange options

trading 6,048 contracts were traded, compared with 5,678 Friday. Burroughs April 70 led the actives, up 1 1/2 to 5 1/2 on 437 contracts. Gulf Oil April 20 followed, up 1/4 to 1 3/4 on 424 contracts. Walt Disney April 30 was third, up 1/4 to 3 1/4 on 399 contracts.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 40,799 contracts were traded, compared with 45,244 Friday. Brunswick April 10 led the actives, up 1-16 to 1 3-16. McDonald's April 30 followed, up 1 3-8 to 5. Pennzoil April 20 was third, up 3-16 to 1 1-16.

THOUGH AREA businesses continue steamrolling along, to move, it is not thought any are

Area business not booming, but far from a bust

by STEVE NOVICK

Industry in the Northwest suburbs is holding its own in the face of nationwide economic downturns.

Manufacturers in the area are talking with cautious optimism that the diversity and nature of suburban non-retail industry is wide enough to withstand economic setbacks.

"I don't think anybody is steamrolling along," said William A. Jones, president of the Centex-Schaumburg Businessmen's Assn. The membership consists of 60 manufacturing, warehousing and office businesses in the Centex-Schaumburg Industrial Park.

JONES, USING employment as a measuring stick, said, "Everyone's just going along. I haven't heard of too many layoffs, but there's not too much overtime either."

Nor has there been any new move-ins to the industrial park, Jones added, emphasizing, "I think it (business in general) is going to stay status quo."

His prediction was qualified by saying business' future depends "on our friendly politicians."

He has observed that slowdowns have occurred in machine shops and tool type businesses because there are not a lot of new products being developed.

JONES MAINTAINS that his own firm, Sackett-Chicago, a steel-fabricating business and two affiliated businesses in the industrial park are "going along fine."

He said that generally speaking, he and his neighbors are "getting orders . . . not just working off their backlog."

Another exception Jones cited is the construction industry which he called "deader than a doornail."

Jones emphasizes that his readings come from mixing in the business community of small to medium-sized operations and are not formally obtained.

BIGGER BUSINESSES, with more sophisticated methods of giving information on how things are going do not run too much more specific about their operations.

One spokesman for a large corporation in the Northwest suburbs was candid enough to say, "You know we're going to be as evasive as possible" when asked about the outlook for his firm.

Another was quick to criticize all the "gloom" reported in the press about the state of the economy and the effect negative information has on business trends.

A spokesman for Motorola's communications division in Schaumburg said the company is hoping to be able to maintain its 15 per cent growth rate enjoyed each year over the past several years.

HE ALSO SAID the company is working hard on a cost-cutting program, short of eliminating jobs. Yet, he conceded the possibility that among the more than 5,000 people working at Motorola in Schaumburg, there could be layoffs sometime in 1975.

Universal Oil Product spokesmen in Des Plaines said there are some jobs available in local divisions but added that if any layoffs are made, the staff (white collar employees) would be looked at first.

Honeywell's spokesman in Arlington Heights was the only person questioned who responded with an inflexible "no comment."

THE TREND FOR business growth in the Northwest suburbs was not predicted by Thomas Coulter, executive director of the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry.

He said, however, that in Schaumburg things are promising because there is a large previous commitment for business dollars to go there. Coulter accented his comment, saying his outlook is not so assured for housing starts.

The association's "1975 Business Outlook Survey" had an interesting twist. It predicted a business slowdown similar to 1971 as opposed to the 1930s depression.

Reflecting on businessmen surveyed in the entire Chicago area the report states: "On balance . . . they were faintly optimistic about additional employment in 1975 but their posture was less hopeful than it was prior to 1971. In that year the area lost 51,000 jobs."

Movers' negotiations report due today

A status report on the negotiations going on to end the 11-day strike by moving van drivers is due today.

The strike by Teamsters Local 1705 against the 70-member Movers Assn. of Greater Chicago is expected to continue.

John Westerberg, president of Nelson-Westerberg Moving and Storage Co., Elk Grove Village, last week predicted the strike could continue through this week and possibly longer. He said an impasse was created when union officials refused to allow their members an opportunity to vote secretly on the movers associations contract offer.

No information was expected before today on possible progress, he said. The union's spokesman was unavailable for comment.

Lack of contract hurts financing

Backers of hospital may sue Blue Cross

by BETTY LEE

Backers of a hospital for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area may sue Blue Cross-Blue Shield, charging the agency has hindered efforts to raise money for the hospital.

Blue Cross officials have refused to sign a contract with Franklin Boulevard Hospital for its proposed branch near Wheeling. Hospital officials say lack of a contract makes it difficult to obtain financing.

"Our problem comes down to Blue Cross and getting the finances," said Norman Davis, consultant to Franklin Boulevard Hospital in Chicago. "We have to make up our minds on what to do next."

Blue Cross-Blue Shield refused to enter an agreement with the hospital after the Comprehensive Health Planning agency said the hospital branch was not needed. Davis said the hospital could be built without the agency's approval, but lending agencies hesitate to support the project without a Blue Cross contract.

DAVIS SAID a lawsuit against the health insurance company is being considered. "We wonder if Blue Cross has any right to do this," he said.

Plans for the 228-bed hospital were approved by the state last May, just before a certificate-of-need law enacted last October requiring backers to prove a hospital is needed went into effect.

"Blue Cross is ignoring the intent of the state legislature which exempted certain hospitals already in plans," Davis said. "How a private organization can ignore this is something we'll have to see."

Hospital plans have been tangled in a legal web for months.

Hospital officials will attempt to appeal the Comprehensive Health Planning agency decision Feb. 5 when they meet with members of the health planning agency.

Davis said Franklin Boulevard Hospital representatives will attend a meeting Thursday in Chicago conducted by Comprehensive Health Planning. Backers of other proposed hospitals turned down by the agency apparently will lodge their opposition to the agency's rulings, Davis said.

DAVIS SAID a proposed hospital in Glendale Heights also received state approval but was rejected by the planning agency, which has local jurisdiction. "We even had final approval to build there," he said.

Davis said financial plans for the hospital near Wheeling were "all arranged" until Blue Cross declined to enter into a contract.

Construction of the hospital originally was estimated to be $11.3 million, but because of delays, officials now anticipate a $12 million price tag.

The hospital has been proposed for a site on the east side of Schoenbeck Road, south of Wheeling limits. Officials hope to annex the hospital site to the village.

The hospital is designed to serve Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, and parts of Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights, Northbrook and southern Lake County.

only as an associate of Leo McLennon, an attorney for the current land owners, said the filing of a lawsuit would be "imminent."

McLENNON THREATENED a suit last week because of the village's unwillingness to approve the project.

Charging that the village board members and Herbert Lortz, plan commission chairman, have delayed the project, the man said they will be named in the suit both in their official capacity and as individuals. He said the suit would ask for "substantial monetary damages" and a court order to permit construction.

The owners' representative said a 624-unit project was approved in February 1971. He said arrangements were made to sell the property based on that plan but "over the past four years that concept has been battered and tossed about."

RALPH STOETZEL INC., the Swan Lake developer, owns 20 acres and has an option to buy another 20 acres of the site, which is located on the east side of Wheeling Road south of Palatine Road. The sales contract for the additional land, however, is dependent on approval of the project by the village.

The Swan Lake plan had been rejected 5 to 2 by the plan commission two weeks ago.

In other action, the village board passed an ordinance annexing the village to the North Suburban Mass Transit District to continue transportation services provided by the former United Motor Coach Co.

The board also approved village participation in the cost of a traffic signal to be installed by the state highway department at the intersection of Wolf and Old Willow roads.

Swan Lake plans vetoed; village may face lawsuit

The Wheeling Village Board Monday night unanimously rejected plans for the proposed Swan Lake development, prompting another threat of a lawsuit against the village.

Through questioning, Trustee Edward Berger and Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon determined that only 10.5 of the 40-acre site would be available for the 540-unit apartment project. Prospect Heights Dist. 23 has an option to purchase 8 acres for a school site, a 14-acre detention pond is planned and a creek takes up 1.5 acres.

Trustee Donald Jackson said the board would be "asking for trouble" if it approved the 540 units on the remaining 18.5 acres.

After the brief board discussion and vote, a man who would identify himself

Mistrial declared

Hung jury in Middleton civil suit

by BARRY SIGALE

A mistrial was declared Monday in the $1.2 million civil suit against Dr. James G. Middleton, convicted Des Plaines physician, when a Circuit Court jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

The seven-woman, five-man jury was summoned by Judge George Schaller at 4:50 p.m. 5½ hours after beginning deliberations. The judge asked the jury foreman if the panel had reached a verdict. "No," was the reply. Schaller ordered the jurors to meet for another hour, but they remained deadlocked.

Middleton was charged by Lynn Nelson, 27, with drugging and sexually assaulting her Feb. 7, 1970. During the three-day trial, Mrs. Nelson testified that Middleton's actions caused her physical and mental stress.

MRS. NELSON, who lived in Carpentersville at the time of the incident and now lives in Matthews, N.C., was not in the courtroom when the mistrial was declared.

Her attorney, Patrick Mahoney, would not comment on whether she plans to ask for a new trial.

Middleton, 48, seemed pleased with the jury's findings and said he was confident Mrs. Nelson would not seek a new trial. He said she perjured herself during the trial and predicted that alleged contradictions in her testimony would practically assure a successful appeal of his 1972 conviction of deviate sexual assault.

"I've got an absolute appeal now," he said, adding that he believed the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education "would feel compelled to give me back my license."

MIDDLETON WAS sentenced to 5 to 10 years in prison on the assault conviction and later received a four-year jail term for federal explosives and firearms violations. He is free on appeal.

Mrs. Nelson charged in the civil suit that her voice deepened and hair grew all over her body from the injection of male hormones. She sought $1,220,000 in damages.

In his defense, Middleton, acting as his own attorney, said he did not assault Mrs. Nelson, and said no medication could cause the symptoms described by Mrs. Nelson.

In his closing remarks Monday, Middleton said information presented during the trial was "concealed, false or misrepresented."

He said there was "not one iota of testimony substantiating or lending any credence to the charges."

IN HIS CLOSING statement to the jury Mahoney said, "I have to say Middleton is a brilliant man. But he took that brilliant mind to turn against Mrs. Nelson. She places her whole body in his trust. She comes to him with an upper respiratory problem, he checks her and injects her."

He said Middleton's testimony was not believable and his statements were inconsistent.

The courtroom drama spilled into the hallway on the 21st floor of the Civic Center as four Sheriff's policemen and the court bailiffs were ordered by the judge to conduct a search of the 20 observers and a couple of the participants at the trial. The judge did not explain the reason for the search.

'Would represent west side'

Weil to seek 6-yr. park board term

Steven Weil, 624 Ivy Ct. will seek a six-year term on the Wheeling Park Board, competing against incumbent Frank Schnaltmann.

Weil, 26, filed a petition Monday, the last date for filing, and thus made the election a contested race. A third candidate, William Neuenfeldt, will run unopposed for a two-year seat on the board.

"I'm running because I'm at the new end of Wheeling and there's not enough representation there," Weil said. "I want to get involved and do a good job."

A resident of Wheeling's west side, Weil said he wants to represent people of that area and those living in apartments. "I believe that someone running has really got to be at the level of the people and I'm at that level," he said.

Weil is married and has been a resident of Wheeling for almost two years. He is manager of a Burger King restaurant in Mount Prospect.

Schnaltmann's name will appear first on the ballot, followed by Weil's. Neuenfeldt's name will appear separately.

Parks Supt. David Phillips said there will be three polling places for the April 15 election. Residents can cast their ballots at Heritage Park, 222 S. Wolf Rd. and at London Junior High School, 1001 Dundee Rd. Park officials are searching for a third polling place in the Buffalo Grove portion served by the Wheeling Park District.

Officials may rededicate fate of Rob Roy site

The fate of the Rob Roy Golf Course may be decided tonight when the Mount Prospect Village Board reconsiders plans to develop the course with 2,350 apartment units.

The board earlier voted to end negotiations with the developer, Kenroy Inc., but has decided to reconsider. The meeting is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. in the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Lesniak unopposed in Prospect Heights

One of three seats at stake in the April 15 Prospect Heights Park Board election will be uncontested.

Comr. Joe Lesniak, 49, of 412 W. McDonald Rd., will be uncontested in his bid for reelection to a six-year term.

For the open four-year term, incumbent Comr. Robert M. Barut, 42, of 417 Dorset Ln., will be opposed by Reynolds Tague, 51, of 206 Tully Pl.

Barut was appointed to the board last year. He has been involved with the Prospect Heights Little League.

Tague has been a member of the Prospect Heights Lions Club for 20 years, having served as its president, and a member of the Lions committee which set up the original Lions Park Pool and other park facilities before the formation of the park district. He also was involved for several years with Little League.

FOUR CANDIDATES will run for the open two-year term, which Comr. Patricia Kerwin has chosen to vacate. The candidates are Jo-Ellen Clawes, 45, of 203 N. Parkway; Otto C. Guedelhoefer, 30, of 100 E. Clarendon St.; Rose Coulter, 58, of 8 Ridge Rd.; and Carlton W. Lohrenz, 29, of 202 Tully Pl.

Mrs. Clawes is coordinator of the park district's senior-citizen club, a Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school crossing guard

Schools to fete Ross principal Esther Pearson

Esther Pearson Day will be held Sunday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at Betsy Ross School in Prospect Heights to honor Mrs. Pearson, retiring principal.

Mrs. Pearson has taught in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 for 20 years and has been principal at Ross for the past seven years. She is retiring from her position to help her husband with his work as a minister with the Moody Bible Institute.

Through her tenure Mrs. Pearson has watched the district grow from one school with 15 teachers to the current five schools with about 100 teachers.

A program will be held at 3 p.m. with presentation by the school board, PTA and Dist. 23 administration. A public-address system donated to Ross School in her honor also will be presented.

Pay raises OK'd for village board

The Wheeling Village Board unanimously voted Monday night to increase salaries for incoming board members by 67 per cent.

The salaries will be raised from $15 a meeting to $25 a meeting with a maximum of $100 a month total. Trustee Donald Jackson estimated that the move would cost the village $480 more a year for each trustee.

"I don't think it is an amount that would break the village," he said.

The motion was made by Trustee Ronald Bruhn, who said he was not a candidate in the April election and therefore would not benefit from the increase. Bruhn said he was making the motion to "make the job a little more lucrative, a little more interesting."

Bruhn added that Rolling Meadows pays its aldermen $50 per meeting. Mount Prospect pays trustees $100 per month and Buffalo Grove is considering a raise for trustees to $25 per meeting.

In another matter, Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon said the village will contribute $1,500 to the Wheeling High School Marching Band to attend a competition this spring in Mexico. The money was left over from the special events item in the budget. No board vote was taken on the matter; however, no trustee voiced any objection.

The band needs $6,500 before March and more than $50,000 in all to make the trip, Scanlon said.

Harper board to meet with area residents

The Harper College Board of Trustees will meet with residents of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Pioneer Savings and Loan Assn., 699 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

The meeting is the third in a series planned by the Harper board. At earlier meetings in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect, board members have answered questions about the college's plans for a second site, the school's curriculum and other issues.

Invitations have been sent to 100 civic leaders from the two villages. The public may attend.

Rolls grow, schools may shift borders

Growing enrollments may cause changes next year in attendance boundaries at Field, Tarkington and Alcott schools in Wheeling-Prospect Heights Dist. 21.

The schools are at capacity this year and are in developing areas where increased enrollment is expected, said John Barger, associate superintendent.

Sandburg, Stevenson, Twain and Irving elementary schools have empty classrooms where students could be transferred next year, he said. A citizens committee will be asked to look into the enrollment figures and recommend possible solutions.

The school board has recommended forming citizens committees to investigate many problems in Dist. 21 and to develop a long-range plan for the district.

The board is asking all Dist. 21 schools and parents organizations to present areas for study by March 13. After receiving the recommendations, the board will decide how to form the citizens' committees and establish them into study groups.

Record 11 seeking 3 park seats

by LUISA GINETTI

The Des Plaines Park Board election April 1 will see a record number of candidates vying for three seats.

Eleven persons, including three incumbents, will have their names on the ballot. Filing for the election closed Monday with two candidates submitting petitions before the 5 p.m. deadline.

The latest candidates to file are Fayo Froehlich, 40, of 129 Drake Ln., who filed petitions Thursday; Nick Chiropoulos, 48, of 156 N. Third Ave., who filed petitions Monday; and James L. Androff, 43, of 570 Orchard Ct., who also filed petitions Monday.

Greg Quinliff, who had filed to run for a two-year term, submitted new petitions Monday to change his candidacy to a six-year term. Quinliff, 23, of 936 Cora St., was the first to file but his change in status will shift his name from the top to the bottom of the ballot.

OTHER CANDIDATES in the race, in the order of their filing, are Clayton Mott, 1159 Jeannette St.; Thomas Mahon, 1375 Campbell St.; Dr. Kermit Smith, 1401 Oakton St.; Joseph Zalabak, 1394 Algonquin Rd.; Ken Ross, 322 Allen St.; Dr. Thompson Wright, 618 Golf Rd., and John Borsch, 1776 Sherwood Rd.

Six candidates will be seeking the two six-year terms that will be up for election while the other five candidates have filed to compete for the one two-year term.

Seeking the six-year terms will be Mahon and Smith, the two incumbents, plus Mott, Quinliff, Ross and Androff. Running for the two-year term will be incumbent Borsch, Zalabak, Wright, Froehlich and Chiropoulos.

Mahon has served on the board for six years and will be seeking his second term. He is the current board president. Smith and Borsch will be in their first election after both were appointed to unexpired terms.

MOTT, 48, WORKS at Jet Rent-a-Car Co., 1515 Oakton St. He is married and has three children.

Zalabak, 63, is retired and worked 26 years with Sears Roebuck and Co. He has lived in the city for 17 years with his wife and five daughters.

Ross, 41, works for Commonwealth Edison Co. in Mount Prospect. He and his wife and three children have lived in Des Plaines for 11 years.

Patrolman's suspension increased to two days

The Des Plaines Board of Fire and Police Commissioners Monday night increased the suspension of Patrolman Scott Broehl from one day to two days for missing a court call earlier this month.

In a 2-to-1 vote, the board said it agreed with the contention of Broehl's attorney, Ronald Willis, that Police Chief Arthur Hintz is not empowered to require that an officer work on one of his days off as a means of discipline, which was the case in Broehl's suspension.

Broehl was required to give up a day off and lose another day's pay as part of the disciplinary measure for missing the court date.

However, the board said it did feel Broehl's case deserved some form of discipline and since the board is empowered to increase a suspension, it voted to do so.

The decision had the effect of carrying out Hintz's original intention in the action, which was to require Broehl to work for two days without pay.

HINTZ TESTIFIED that he approved the recommendation from Capt. Dale Mensching that Broehl be docked a day's pay as well as forfeit a day off as punishment for missing his court call Jan. 2.

Under questioning from Willis, Hintz admitted that the action had the effect of a two-day suspension since the loss of a day's pay coupled with working a day without pay is the same thing.

Willis argued during the hearing that the penalty for the incident was not proper because Hintz is not empowered to force a man to work on a day off. The statutes only allow a police chief to suspend a man up to five days, Willis said, but no laws give the chief power to require an officer to work on his scheduled day off.

Comr. William J. Connolly voted against the board's action because he felt Broehl should have received only a one-day suspension.

CONNOLLY SAID he felt the loss of a day's pay was a justified action, but said adding another day to the suspension was in effect the same as forcing Broehl to work a day off, which the laws do not permit.

The incident marked the second time within the past four months that Broehl has appeared before the board to appeal a suspension.

In the first case, in which Broehl was suspended for allegedly violating the department's hair code, the board ruled for the patrolman. The board reached a unanimous agreement that the hair code was not clear in its language regarding wearing of hair below the ears, for which Broehl was suspended.

The board's decision in that case forced a rewriting of the department's hair code to clarify its meaning.

Jury deadlocked, mistrial declared in Middleton suit

by BARRY SIGALE

A mistrial was declared Monday in the $1.2 million civil suit against Dr. James G. Middleton, convicted Des Plaines physician, when a Circuit Court jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

The seven-woman, five-man jury was summoned by Judge George Schaller at 4:50 p.m., 5½ hours after beginning deliberations. The judge asked the jury foreman if the panel had reached a verdict. "No," was the reply. Schaller ordered the jurors to meet for another hour, but they remained deadlocked.

Middleton was charged by Lynn Nelson, 27, with drugging and sexually assaulting her Feb. 7, 1970. During the three-day trial, Mrs. Nelson testified that Middleton's actions caused her physical and mental stress.

MRS. NELSON, who lived in Carpentersville at the time of the incident and now lives in Matthews, N.C., was not in the courtroom when the mistrial was declared.

Her attorney, Patrick Mahoney, would not comment on whether she plans to ask for a new trial.

Middleton, 43, seemed pleased with the jury's findings and said he was confident Mrs. Nelson would not seek a new trial. He said she perjured herself during the trial and predicted that alleged contradictions in her testimony would practically assure a successful appeal of his 1972 conviction of deviate sexual assault.

"I've got an absolute appeal now," he said, adding that he believed the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education "would feel compelled to give me back my license."

MIDDLETON WAS sentenced to 5 to 10 years in prison on the assault conviction and later received a four-year jail term for federal explosives and firearms violations. He is free on appeal.

Mrs. Nelson charged in the civil suit that her voice deepened and hair grew all over her body from the injection of male hormones. She sought $1,220,000 in damages.

In his defense, Middleton, acting as his own attorney, said he did not assault Mrs. Nelson, and said no medication could cause the symptoms described by Mrs. Nelson.

In his closing remarks Monday, Middleton said information presented during the trial was "concealed, false or misrepresented."

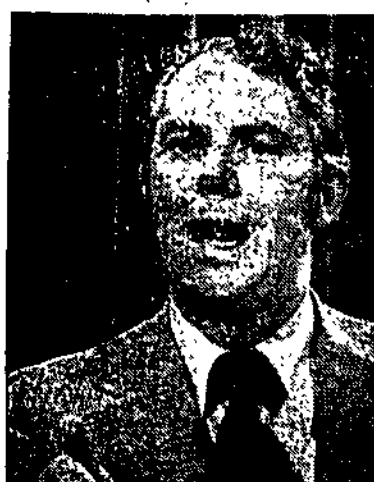

He said there was "not one iota of testimony substantiating or lending any credence to the charges."

IN HIS CLOSING statement to the jury Mahoney said, "I have to say Middleton is a brilliant man. But he took that brilliant mind to turn against Mrs. Nelson. She places her whole body in his trust. She comes to him with an upper respiratory problem, he checks her and injects her."

He said Middleton's testimony was not believable and his statements were inconsistent.

The courtroom drama spilled into the hallway on the 21st floor of the Civic Center as four Sheriff's policemen and the court bailiffs were ordered by the judge to conduct a search of the 20 observers and a couple of the participants at the trial. The judge did not explain the reason for the search.

Bardwell's philosophy of education

'Community-oriented' schools needed

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Label Roger Bardwell's philosophy of education "community oriented."

The new acting superintendent of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 wants each school to reflect the personality and needs of its neighborhood. He talks of parents helping to put together an educational program for their children, of using senior citizens as volunteers or tutors in the schools, and of establishing day-care centers in empty classrooms if the need exists.

Bardwell returned to familiar territory when he was selected as acting superintendent after the forced resignation of James Ervill. He served as Dist. 59 superintendent from 1960 to 1966, leaving to become superintendent of schools in Ithaca, N.Y. He has since worked for Harper and Row Publishers and was a teacher at the National College of Education in Evanston.

BARDWELL IS glad to be back in his old stomping grounds and makes it no secret that he is a candidate for permanent superintendent. The board of education expects to select a permanent superintendent within three to six months.

In the interim, Bardwell will be "acting" in name only.

Roger Bardwell

"I'll do all that I can while I'm here. I don't plan on acting any different than I was to stay here forever," he said. Admitting his influence might be less because of his temporary situation, he said, "I think it will be clear to people which way I want to push, which direction I want to go."

Many people in the district who worked with Bardwell in the past are hoping he will bring back the "golden era" of the 60s. After several years under the tight reign of Ervill, they welcome Bardwell's philosophy of decentralizing the district and returning some control and responsibility to principals and teachers.

"I believe in decentralization in the total sense," Bardwell said. "Schools should reflect the principal rather than the central administration. The individual school is where the business goes on. That's where the important decisions should be made."

THE BOARD OF education, he believes, should manage, and monitor the schools. "The board and administration have an important role in seeing that the system is working. They must set up a system of evaluation to make sure it works."

Bardwell also believes the school district should offer diversity in its educational program. He envisions one school offering perhaps an individualized approach while another would follow a very structured, traditional program.

"Parents should be given a choice of educational programs and schools. If they see something in their neighborhood school they can't buy, the parent should have the right to pick another school. They have the choice now but we make it hard for them — it's done so seldom. It should be so common it's comfortable."

Bardwell also would like to see more diversity in educational materials used in the schools. A single text should be used as an anchor, guaranteeing the continuity of the academic program. "but teachers should feel they have a responsibility to depart from that anchor. They should use whatever they can find to teach that child effectively. There's more types of kids than one text can fulfill."

BARDWELL WANTS his schools to respond to the needs of the community whenever possible. "Let's say the No. 1 concern in the community is the need for a good day-care program. If we were to move into that area, provide the care, get some federal funding, we might be looked on as innovative. But we would only be responding to a parent need."

"As superintendent I will suggest some things for the district to do, but they won't be relevant unless there is a need," he said.

Bardwell feels his years in industry and teaching have given him a better perspective on being a superintendent. "The superintendency is an exposed job. You get weary. It's important to have a sabbatical, get away from it, step back and take a look at the whole picture," he said. "In publishing I had a chance to renew myself. I had time to visit lots of schools and see them from the outside. By teaching I got into more theory. Now I'm really ready to come back."

Citizens Utilities cites rate hike need

Citizens Utilities Co. "is in serious need of additional revenues," a company official told the Illinois Commerce Commission at a hearing Monday on a 36 per cent sewer rate-increase request.

Jack O. Sanders, vice president of the utility company, told the ICC that rate increases approved by the commission last year are not sufficient.

In August, the ICC granted Citizens a 16.5 per cent increase in water rates and hiked monthly sewer charges from $3 to $6. Citizens Utilities had been seeking a 52 per cent hike in minimum water rates.

THE RATE INCREASE now under study would boost sewer charges another $2.18 to Citizens customers in the Mount Prospect and Des Plaines area, bringing the monthly charge to $8.18.

2 refile in Mount Prospect race

Two candidates in the Mount Prospect Park District election were forced to refile their nominating petitions Monday so their names will appear on the ballot April 1.

William Hickey and Richard P. Coleman failed to indicate on their original petitions whether they were seeking six-year or four-year terms. Although the two would have been the first to appear on the ballot if their first petitions were accepted, there is now a chance that they will be at the bottom of the ballot as a result of the re-filing.

Both candidates refiled their petitions Monday, with Coleman filing just shortly before 5 p.m. when filing officially closed.

THE TWO SAID they hoped that the ballot order will not be readjusted to reflect the new petitions. Hickey noted that some of his petitions were signed before the single four-year seat was vacated with the death of Roland Becker. He said it was therefore obvious that he was filing for a six-year term.

Coleman said he also feels that his name should appear at the top of the ballot, reflecting his first petitions. "I don't agree with the attorney's opinion," he said referring to the park attorney's earlier remarks. He called the matter "a technicality that is probably not valid."

The two join Theodore Pandak, former Mount Prospect zoning board member, in challenging incumbents Rosemary Argus and William Selep.

Victor Rose is the only candidate who has filed for the four-year seat vacated with Becker's death.

Most of the candidates have indicated satisfaction with the current operation of the park district and have not yet defined any issues in the campaign.

Mrs. Argus and Selep live in Des Plaines and the other candidates live in Mount Prospect.

RAYMOND PETERSEN, attorney representing Mount Prospect, said he did not know what arguments he would present against the rate increase. "We need time to examine our case and meet with our people," he said.

A variety of homeowners groups in areas affected by the proposed increase also have filed for permission to cross-examine witnesses and present opposing arguments. The Waycinden Park Homeowners Assn., near Des Plaines, is being represented by the Water Consumer Assn.

Boy, 14, hit by auto reported satisfactory

A 14-year-old Des Plaines boy remained in satisfactory condition at Holy Family Hospital Monday from injuries he sustained Friday when he was hit by a car.

Police said the boy, Vaughn, L. Pusey, 940 Walnut Ave., was delivering papers early Friday when the accident occurred. The boy stepped out of his father's car on Second Avenue south of Thacker Street and crossed in front of his father's stopped vehicle to deliver a paper when a northbound car on Second Avenue struck the boy, police said.

Virginia I. Humbert, 28, of 1024 Oakwood Ave., told police she saw the stopped vehicle but did not see the boy until it was too late.

No tickets were issued.

Bargain books on the way?

Oakton may pick up some books and equipment cheap through a bankruptcy auction of another college.

Oakton Business Mgr. David Hilquist told the board he is considering bidding on 80,000 volumes of library books and other equipment being sold by a Wisconsin bankruptcy court. The auction is on all the property of the College of Racine (Wis.), which has been closed for a year, Hilquist said.

Hilquist said he may ask the board for a special meeting to authorize him to bid on the items if an investigation of the sale proves fruitful. "If we can pick some things up for 10 cents on the dollar it will be worth it," he said.

Parks call lobby meeting for Feb. 15

by JILL BETTNER

The Elk Grove Park Board is calling a meeting Feb. 15 of 75 Northwest suburban area park district representatives to set up a grass roots political lobby group.

Park Board Pres. Lew Smith hopes to form a coalition of northeastern Illinois park districts to push for both state and federal legislation to provide more sources of park revenue and otherwise benefit park districts.

Smith said Monday he is inviting representatives of park districts in Cook, Lake and McHenry counties to attend the meeting scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Sheraton-O'Hare Motor Hotel, Rosemont.

SMITH SAID one of the main reasons for forming the group is to ensure that park districts are considered when state and federal monies are doled out to other taxing bodies. In the past, park districts have been specifically excluded from funding legislation such as federal revenue-sharing.

In his letter to park district representatives, Smith cited the need for park districts to band together and take a "strong grass roots approach" in convincing state legislators, in particular, to increase sources of park revenue.

"If you examine the track record of park districts in comparison with municipalities, townships and school districts relative to revenue sources, the message should be clear," he said.

The first goal of the lobby group will be to support the efforts of the Illinois Assn. of Park Districts to obtain a share of state income-tax revenue for park districts. All park commissioners are members of the association.

SMITH SAID HE believes the lobby group could be effective in helping the association find a sponsor for a bill that is being written and urging state legislators to vote for it when the time comes.

"I think we could shake the bushes a little bit and maybe instead of 40 'no' votes come up with 40 'yes' votes," he said. "The whole point is to get feedback to and from the General Assembly faster."

Currently, Smith said, most information on pending legislation is relayed to park districts through a part-time lobbyist hired by the park district association.

Smith has stressed that the lobby group would continue to cooperate with the association and the local coalition would in no way compete with the statewide organization. However, Smith said he feels the northeastern Illinois region is a "rapid growth area" with its own special problems and requires another voice in Springfield.

ald ties a sling on Patty Martin while other classmates do the same. The course does not cover one talent, though — how to get out of the wraps.

Kids learn first aid firsthand

What looks like a hospital emergency room after a natural disaster is really a science class this year at Lively Junior High School, Elk Grove Village.

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 school has added a new twist to its science classes aimed at giving students more self esteem and some practical talent on how to handle themselves in an emergency.

First aid, offered at the school on a limited basis last year, is now a regular part of the school's sixth-grade curriculum. Taught once or twice a week instead of science, the class includes basics about bandaging, cardiac-pulmonary massage, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and other first-aid techniques.

The course also covers related areas such as heart disease and poison safety.

THE CLASS, which involves about 230 sixth graders, is taught by Diane Dragel and Sybil Greener. Both were specially trained to teach the course, which uses basic Red Cross first aid.

"It's quite common for a parent today to have a heart attack and the child to be right there," said Mrs. Greener, explaining her reasons for beginning the course. "But the training also gives the students confidence."

Mrs. Greener said many of the students who have taken the course have used their training in minor home accidents.

After taking the sixth-grade course, students undergo a brief refresher course as part of their seventh- and eighth-grade physical education curriculum, said Jerry Borger, associate principal.

Besides teaching what to do in emergencies, the course also attempts to teach students how to handle a common part of most emergencies, fear.

"We teach that if they are afraid, one thing they can do is offer compassion," Mrs. Greener said.

Annexation hearing may be slated tonight

The Elk Grove Village Board tonight is expected to schedule a hearing on the annexation of a 20-acre tract for an apartment complex.

The petition to annex the tract, north and west of Adolph Link School and east of Meacham Road, has received plan commission approval.

The land is currently zoned for single-family houses and is on the village's western boundary.

In other action, the officials will consider a petition from the owners of a 7-Eleven store at the southeast corner of Landmeyer and Tonne roads. The owner is requesting a variation to allow construction of a 120-square-foot sign. An ordinance sets a 90-square-foot limit on sign size.

Village officials also will consider adopting a formal resolution on acceptance of federal community-development funds. Trustees have said they do not wish to participate or work with the county in seeking grant money under the U.S. Housing and Community and Development Act.

Boy, 14, hit by auto reported satisfactory

A 14-year-old Des Plaines boy remained in satisfactory condition at Holy Family Hospital Monday from injuries he sustained Friday when he was hit by a car.

Police said the boy, Vaughn, L. Pusey, 940 Walnut Ave., was delivering papers early Friday when the accident occurred. The boy stepped out of his father's car on Second Avenue south of

Bardwell's philosophy of education

'Community-oriented' schools needed

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Label Roger Bardwell's philosophy of education "community oriented."

The new acting superintendent of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 wants each school to reflect the personality and needs of its neighborhood. He talks of parents helping to put together an educational program for their children, of using senior citizens as volunteers or tutors in the schools, and of establishing day-care centers in empty classrooms if the need exists.

Bardwell returned to familiar territory when he was selected as acting superintendent after the forced resignation of James Erviti. He served as Dist. 59 superintendent from 1969 to 1988, leaving to become superintendent of schools in Ithaca, N.Y. He has since worked for Harper and Row Publishers and was a teacher at the National College of Education in Evanston.

BARDWELL IS glad to be back in his old stomping grounds and makes it no secret that he is a candidate for permanent superintendent. The board of education expects to select a permanent superintendent within three to six months.

In the interim, Bardwell will be "acting" in name only.

"I'll do all that I can while I'm here. I don't plan on acting any different than if I were to stay here forever," he said. Admitting his influence might be less because of his temporary situation, he said, "I think it will be clear to people which way I want to push, which direction I want to go."

Many people in the district who worked with Bardwell in the past are hoping he will bring back the "golden era" of the 60s. After several years under the tight reign of Erviti, they welcome Bardwell's philosophy of decentralizing the district and returning some control and responsibility to principals and teachers.

"I believe in decentralization in the total sense," Bardwell said. "Schools should reflect the principal rather than the central administration. The individual school is where the business goes on. That's where the important decisions should be made."

THE BOARD OF education, he believes, should manage, and monitor the schools. "The board and administration have an important role in seeing that the system is working. They must set up a system of evaluation to make sure it works."

Bardwell also believes the school district should offer diversity in its educational program. He envisions one school offering perhaps an individualized approach while another would follow a very structured, traditional program.

"Parents should be given a choice of educational programs and schools. If they see something in their neighborhood school they can't buy, the parent should have the right to pick another school. They have the choice now but we make it hard for them — it's done so seldom. It should be so common it's comfortable."

Bardwell also would like to see more diversity in educational materials used in the schools. A single text should be used as an anchor, guaranteeing the continuity of the academic program, "but teachers should feel they have a responsibility to depart from that anchor. They should use whatever they can find to teach that child effectively. There's more types of kids than one text can fulfill."

BARDWELL WANTS his schools to respond to the needs of the community whenever possible. "Let's say the No. 1 concern in the community is the need for a good day-care program. If we were to move into that area, provide the care, get some federal funding, we might be looked on as innovative. But we would only be responding to a parent need."

"As superintendent I will suggest some things for the district to do, but they won't be relevant unless there is a need," he said.

Bardwell feels his years in industry and teaching have given him a better perspective on being a superintendent. "The superintendency is an exposed job. You get weary. It's important to have a sabbatical, get away from it, step back and take a look at the whole picture," he said. "In publishing I had a chance to renew myself. I had time to visit lots of schools and see them from the outside. By teaching I got into more theory. Now I'm really ready to come back."

Hung jury in Middleton civil suit

by BARRY SIGALE

A mistrial was declared Monday in the $1.2 million civil suit against Dr. James G. Middleton, convicted Des Plaines physician, when a Circuit Court jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

The seven-woman, five-man jury was summoned by Judge George Schaller at 4:50 p.m., 5½ hours after beginning deliberations. The judge asked the jury foreman if the panel had reached a verdict. "No," was the reply. Schaller ordered the jurors to meet for another hour, but they remained deadlocked.

Middleton was charged by Lynn Nelson, 27, with drugging and sexually assaulting her Feb. 7, 1970. During the three-day trial, Mrs. Nelson testified that Middleton's actions caused her physical and mental stress.

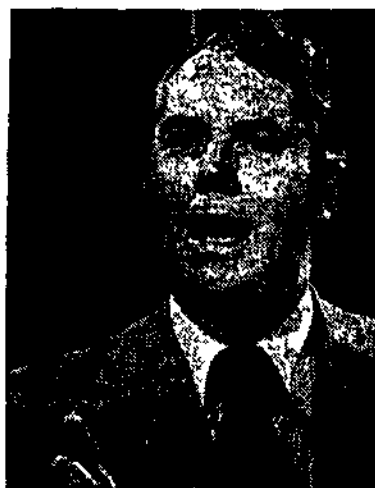

MRS. NELSON, who lived in Carpentersville at the time of the incident and now lives in Matthews, N.C., was not in the courtroom when the mistrial was declared.

Her attorney, Patrick Mahoney, would not comment on whether she plans to ask for a new trial.

Middleton, 48, seemed pleased with the jury's findings and said he was confident Mrs. Nelson would not seek a new trial. He said she perjured herself during the

Only two seats open

Newcomers, incumbents opponents in park vote

Joan Brennan, 97 Shelly Ct., and James Cashman, 956 Brantwood Ave., will face incumbents Shari Shapiro and David von Schaumburg in the April 15 Elk Grove Park Board election.

Filing closed Monday in the race to be conducted along with the village board election.

Mrs. Brennan will challenge Mrs. Shapiro for a six-year term on the park board. Cashman will oppose von Schaumburg for a two-year term.

Mrs. Brennan, 41, is a substitute teacher in Wood Dale Dist. 7 and has two children. She has been a resident of the village for about six years.

Mrs. Brennan said she is running for the park board because she wants to become involved in community service and she has been interested in the park district for sometime.

IF ELECTED, Mrs. Brennan said she would conduct an evaluation of the park district.

"I'd like to take a total over-all look at the park district, the cost of operation, budget, personnel and then start looking at the subsidies," she said. "I think we need to look at the community by age group and see who's being well taken care of with programs and where improvements are needed."

Cashman, 46, is manpower development training manager for the A.B. Dick Co. He has five children and has lived in Elk Grove about 15 years.

Cashman said he decided to seek the park board seat because he believed von Schaumburg should not run unopposed and because he believes the park district should provide more programs for teenagers in the community.

"We have sort of a twilight zone in the area of teen-age activities — especially junior high age kids," Cashman said.

MRS. SHAPIRO, the newest member of the park board, was appointed last August to succeed Jack Ramey, who resigned. A homemaker, Mrs. Shapiro has three children and has lived in the village about eight years.

Mrs. Shapiro said she hopes to retain her seat on the board for another six years in order to put to use what she has learned since being appointed.

"With the experience I've gained, I've found the park board to be very interesting and exciting work and I want to continue," she said.

A charter member of the park board, von Schaumburg was first elected in 1966. He chose to run for reelection in 1973, but saying he missed being involved, applied for the seat vacated last June by Martin Durkin. He could not be reached for comment Monday on his reasons for wanting to retain his position.

trial and predicted that alleged contradictions in her testimony would practically assure a successful appeal of his 1972 conviction of deviate sexual assault.

"I've got an absolute appeal now," he said, adding that he believed the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education "would feel compelled to give me back my license."

MIDDLETON WAS sentenced to 5 to 10 years in prison on the assault conviction and later received a four-year jail term for federal explosives and firearms violations. He is free on appeal.

Mrs. Nelson charged in the civil suit that her voice deepened and hair grew all over her body from the injection of male hormones. She sought $1,220,000 in damages.

In his defense, Middleton, acting as his own attorney, said he did not assault Mrs. Nelson, and said no medication could cause the symptoms described by Mrs. Nelson.

In his closing remarks Monday, Middleton said information presented during the trial was "concealed, false or misrepresented."

He said there was "not one iota of testimony substantiating or lending any credence to the charges."

IN HIS CLOSING statement to the jury

Dr. James G. Middleton

Mahoney said, "I have to say Middleton is a brilliant man. But he took that brilliant mind to turn against Mrs. Nelson. She places her whole body in his trust. She comes to him with an upper respiratory problem, he checks her and injects her."

He said Middleton's testimony was not believable and his statements were inconsistent.

The courtroom drama spilled into the hallway on the 21st floor of the Civic Center as four Sheriff's policemen and the court bailiffs were ordered by the judge to conduct a search of the 20 observers and a couple of the participants at the trial. The judge did not explain the reason for the search.

Coste to get manager job tonight?

by PAT GERLACH

Schaumburg Village Administrator John E. Coste tonight is expected to be named to the new post of village manager at an annual salary of $27,450.

A recommendation is expected at the 8 p.m. village board meeting from the manager-selection committee, said Trustee James Guthrie, chairman. Though Guthrie refused to discuss the candidate to be recommended for the post, sources close to village government say Coste is expected to get the job.

The selection committee has been meeting for the past month to screen resumes from 31 candidates in response to advertisements in professional magazines.

AFTER A CLOSED session of the village board last week, Guthrie said the committee recommendation would be presented this week rather than Feb. 11 as originally planned. The new position takes effect May 1.

Coste has repeatedly refused to discuss the village manager post other than to confirm that he is a candidate.

Coste, 53, has been village administrator for the past three years. He served as assistant manager for the Village of Arlington Heights after his 1968 retirement from 26 years in the U.S. Navy.

Coste has a master's degree in public administration and is a member of a number of professional organizations.

THE VILLAGE manager form of government was adopted by ordinance in Schaumburg last year, after Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher said he would not seek a fifth term.

Atcher has served as full-time village president since 1968 when the village entered a massive period of growth in residential and commercial development as well as preliminary planning for Woodfield Shopping Center.

After the April election, the village presidency will become a part-time post, carrying total annual compensation of $11,000, including salary, compensation for serving as liquor commissioner and expenses.

THE LAST RADAR tower is being dismantled at the Arlington Heights Nike Base, now an Army Reserve Center. Once four additional radar towers filled the skyline off Kirchhoff Road, but technology made the Nike anti-aircraft weapons obsolete and eventually the Army shut down missile operations.

Collector's post may fall under control of manager

The appointive office of Schaumburg village collector may be put under the jurisdiction of the new village manager after May 1.

Schaumburg finance committee members voted Monday to send the ordinance concerning the collector position to the legal committee for review. Present ordinances designate the village clerk as collector at an annual salary of $8,930. As of May 1, the clerk will be paid double the present annual salary of $1,500.

$380 burglary probed

Police are investigating a $380 burglary at the home of Robert Malvaso, 1011 Duxbury Ln., Schaumburg, Sunday.

Malvaso told police Sunday that a metal box, a color television set, a piggy bank containing about $150 in silver coins and a jar holding about $30 worth of pennies were taken in the break-in.

Entry was gained by prying open the rear door to the home, police said.

Finance committee members requested changes that would eliminate the collector's salary from the ordinance, subjecting the post to annual review.

REVISIONS also would require the collector to report to the village manager rather than the village president.

Administrator John E. Coste said the appointive post of collector does not apply in home-rule communities, saying that the job was established by local ordinance.

In other action Monday, the finance committee voted to recommend the village board double the $150 annually paid to chairmen of the zoning board of appeals, plans commission, mass transportation committee and fire and police commission.

The committee also will ask village trustees to authorize a $30 increase to the $150 paid to chairmen of other village committees.

The committee voted against suggesting increases in the $100 annually paid to committee and commission members.

The recommendations will be presented at today's village board meeting at 8 p.m. in the Schaumburg Civic Center, 101 S. Schaumburg Ct.

Village keeps right to cash

The Village of Hoffman Estates has voted to reserve the right to apply on its own for federal funds under the U.S. Housing and Community Development Act.

The village board at the same time made no decision Monday night on what project, if any, the funding would be sought. However, Village Pres. Virginia Hayter suggested as one possible area long-range street and sidewalk improvements which the village will undertake in the next 10 years.

The board by a voice vote defeated a motion to have the village's 31,800 population included in the county's population figures needed for the county's qualification in the program. The county must be able to include enough local municipalities with populations under 50,000 to meet its population-qualifying figure set by the federal government.

The county cannot include the City of Chicago in its figures.

IN DECLINING to contribute its population, the village retained its right to seek funds itself under the new act which is intended to provide local communities with money to assist low and moderate-income families and prevent community blight.

The act entitles communities with populations of 50,000 or more to receive funding. Communities with less than 50,000 may apply for discretionary funds, or those left after the mandatory allocations are made.

The village would have been required by Friday to notify the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development if its population was to have been added to the county.

The board's decision came after Mrs. Hayter read a letter she sent to John Warner, area director of HUD, seeking information on the county's spending plans for the estimated $3 million it expects to receive in the first year of funding.

The letter said the village's long-range street and sidewalk improvement program is a village concern which could benefit from funding allocation.

TWO TRUSTEES, Edward Hennessy and Dyrle Rathman, supported a motion to include the village in the county figures, but others argued against the move.

Trustee Ralph Lyerla said the village could benefit more if it received funds on its own. Trustee William Cowin said the village also might consider joining one or more other neighboring municipalities to form a 50,000 population area and apply for funds for a mutually beneficial project.

Such a grouping is permitted under the provisions of the act, Mrs. Hayter said.

The board did not decide how it will pursue the matter, but indicated a decision on a funding request may come by March 1.

Assessments, taxes subject for homeowners

Two representatives of County Assessor Thomas Tully will discuss county assessments and taxes with area homeowners and members of the Winston Knolls Homeowners Assn. at 8 p.m. today in the Hoffman Estates municipal building.

The assessment officials, Frank Bischof, an assistant information director, and Rick Martin, research director, are members of Tully's new Public Information Task Force.

The task force debut was Jan. 2 before an angry group of Berwyn homeowners who face increased taxes this year after assessment increases. Some Winston Knolls residents were threatened with 20 to 30 per cent real-estate-tax increases last year after overassessment by former Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

Park district slates Burpee Museum trip

Lunch, specialty shopping and a visit to the Burpee Natural History Museum highlight the Feb. 20 Hoffman Estates Park District trip to Rockford.

The park district is taking registration for the trip at the Vogel Administration Center, 650 W. Higgins Rd.

The Burpee Museum's famous for its displays in geology, anthropology, Indian lore, wildlife and art. After lunch at Connie's, the bus will take trip participants to Henri's Motor Inn for a visit to the Time Museum, which presents various time-keeping devices through 4,000 years.

Lunch and transportation are included in the $9 fee.

He's eligible for two posts

Anthony Stompanato became eligible to run for either the two-year or six-year commissioner posts on the Hoffman Estates Park Board after he filed an additional nominating petition Monday afternoon.

Stompanato, 218 Illinois Blvd., originally had filed Jan. 13 for the two-year unexpired term. Allen Binder, park district director, said Stompanato, a director of the board of the Hoffman Estates Boys Club, has five days to decide which term he will seek in the April 1 election.

If Stompanato decides to run for the six-year terms, it will leave Thomas McGuire, 105 E. Charleston Ln., unopposed for the two-year spot. McGuire is president of the Winston Knolls Homeowners Assn.

Stompanato indicated last week that he could not let the incumbents go unopposed for the two 6-year terms. Commissioners Fred Weaver, 275 Fremont Ct., and Shirley Gibbons, 2122 W. Smethwick, La., have filed petitions for the six-year spots.

In the Schaumburg Park District, no additional candidates filed Monday, the last day of petition filing. Incumbent commissioners Joseph Roberts Jr., 7990 Northway Dr., Hanover Park; and John Brandenburg, 1736 W. Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg, will be the top two names on the ballot. They are followed by Rocco Pugliese, 509 Summit Dr., and Ronald Hawley, 101 S. Salem Dr., both active members of the Schaumburg Athletic Assn.

Being tested at Conant

An 'alternative' for potential dropout

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Education is supposed to be democratic. The idea is to provide a free public school system for everyone — education for the masses.

But for some students the system just doesn't work. People learn in different ways and some students simply don't make it in schools designed for "every-one."

"We take one program and throw them all in because we're democratic and then start squeezing down on the ones who make trouble," said Lee Butler, assistant principal at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates.

But Conant students are given a choice. This year, five high school systems are operating at once in a building serving 2,300 students. The systems range from the traditional program for freshmen to the "time-priority system" exempting students from class sessions if they have completed assignments and want to work on something else. Geared toward the motivated student — the "achiever" — these programs give the student more independence and freedom to learn on his own.

THE NEWEST SYSTEM — alternative education — is for the student who doesn't succeed in a traditional structure, one who does poorly in class, gets frustrated and often is a discipline problem. He's the potential dropout.

Alternative education is being tried at Conant this year. If it proves successful, Dist. 211 officials may expand the system to the other four high schools in the district.

Students in alternative education work individually with teacher Cathy Connor on assignments in math, English, consumer education — any course required for graduation. Each student has a set of assignments which he works on at his own pace.

BUTLER BELIEVES the alternative-education program has been a factor in the decreased dropout rate at Conant. Last school year 33 students dropped out by Nov. 1, but this year only 14 students dropped out in the same period.

Some students still drop out but Butler feels "everyone who has dropped out of this program would have dropped out sooner." There are some failures, but there also are "a few very exciting cases, — just complete turnarounds."

One boy often became hostile in regular classes last year. He refused to do his work and constantly disrupted the class. This year he was placed in Miss Con-

ONE-TO-ONE class sessions between students and teacher Cathy Connor are the basis of the new alternative education program at Conant High nor's room, where he sat at a table and read magazines. For two weeks she tried to get him to work on a math assignment. He ignored her and she left him alone. One day he walked into class, picked up his assignment and started working. Today he's almost caught up on his work and he's lost most of his hostility.

EDUCATORS HAVE spent "too many years hammering away at behavior" and not enough time finding out why students misbehave, Butler said. When a student doesn't do an English assignment, more should be done than simply failing him in the course, Butler said. "We must somehow identify in a deeply human way the needs of kids and know who they really are."

In the past schools "took a whole bunch of people, pushed them into a program and prodded them through like cattle," Miss Connor said. But if education is supposed to be for everyone, schools should help the student who can't make it in a system designed for the majority, she believes.

Miss Connor has been involved in alternative-education programs during most of her teaching career and she has almost completed a master's degree in alternative education.

PROBABLY THE IDEAL situation is a school with an entire alternative-education department, a whole staff of teachers and an entire curriculum of alternative programs, Miss Connor said. But she realizes that's a dream. In public schools, it probably is impossible to design a program for each child.

Miss Connor said the Conant program probably is the next best thing. Students "do much better in my room," she said, and "part of it, of course, is I don't have as many kids in my room."

Butler agrees. "Many just need more one-to-one attention."

There are rarely more than five or six students in Miss Connor's room at one time. Some see just two or three times. Some are there three periods each day before they go to regular classrooms. Some need alternative education for just a few weeks and some need it all semester.

BUTLER SEES ALL the school structures at Conant from alternative education to independent study programs, as a set of concentric circles. Students move from one structure to the next as they develop ability, maturity and responsibility. Students are not locked into one structure throughout their high school career.

If students can't conform to school, educators say, perhaps the answer is to make the school conform to the students. In fact, Butler sees alternative education as "one more effort to adjust the atmosphere to the needs of kids."

"You can find a lot of kids who say 'I hate school,'" Butler said, "but I've never heard a kid say I hate learning."

Bar Harbour condominium apartment project 'not for sale'

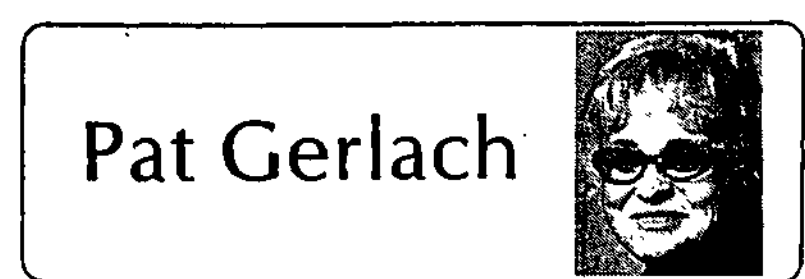

Schaumburg's elegant Bar Harbour condominium apartment development has progressed so well that builder Elmer Gleich recently expressed interest in buying back the 40-acre project, said Philip Grandinetti Jr.

"But it's not for sale. Schaumburg is a terrific place for us," said the owner of Grandinetti Development Co., Oak Brook, who purchased the Schaumburg and Meacham roads property from Gleich last year.

Grandinetti disavowed rumors that his firm is in severe financial difficulty and said construction of the second phase of Bar Harbour, consisting of two 10-story buildings, will get under way this spring. A 90-unit building there is more than half occupied and a second is nearing completion.

The developer says he looks for the "pent up housing demand" to really "break open" in another two to three months.

"LET'S THINK about getting rid of the utility taxes first," remarked Village Pres. Virginia Hayter of Hoffman Estates when told village finance committee members plan to recommend that an auto be leased for her. Mrs. Hayter is a nondriver.

MEMBERS OF Hillcrest PTA say they are proud of two local men who own a small grocery store for complying with their suggestion that "girlie" magazines be relocated to places less obvious to young children.

But Marilyn Schram, of the parent-teacher group, is quick to point out that "neither the PTA nor these men espouse censorship."

Alderman to ask $3,000 for drug unit

Ald. Thomas W. Scanlan, 1st, will ask the Rolling Meadows City Council tonight to appropriate $3,000 to the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG), an undercover narcotics agency.

Scanlan's recommendation comes from the council's licensing, police, health and fire committee, which met earlier this month with Sgt. Robert Taylor, who is assigned to MEG from the Sheriff's police. Rolling Meadows does not supply an agent to MEG because of what officials call manpower limitations.

MEG has approached all nonparticipating departments in the county for financial support. Although Taylor was unable to provide a breakdown of cases involving Rolling Meadows citizens, he supplied reports showing MEG arrested 163 persons from nonparticipating communities with populations of 10,000 to 10,000. Rolling Meadows falls into that category.

POLICE CHIEF Lewis R. Case told members of the committee his department has worked with MEG agents in the past.

Scanlan estimated that Rolling Meadows would have to spend $20,000 to participate fully in MEG to pay a man's salary, fringe benefits and transportation expenses. He and other committee members termed the $3,000 request for continuing MEG services a bargain.

Expenditures also will be requested for purchase of a walk-in van for use by the city public works department signing crews, and for a pickup truck. Ald. John T. Rock, chairman of the public works, building and zoning committee, also will recommend approval of a $6,000 payment for last summer's street maintenance program. The council last year authorized a $100,000 repair and resurfacing schedule, but the work cost the city about $106,000.

'Alert patrolman' makes new promotions possible

An "alert patrolman" in Rolling Meadows saved the city from violating state law governing police promotions, and expanded the number of men who may be eligible for sergeant from six to 17.

The city's board of police and fire commissioners started with two mistaken beliefs when it administered a written test for promotion to sergeant to 18 men this winter, said Comr. Rudolf Balek. The commission set a minimum passing score of 73 for the written test, when the law specifies 70 as a passing score, he said. And a man cannot be excluded from an oral interview or a review of his record because he scores low on the written portion, said Balek.

"We wouldn't have known it if one of the men had not notified us," said Balek. He said he was "alerted by a patrolman" who took the test, and telephoned after the commission mailed out letters to the 12 men who scored less than 73 telling them they were not eligible to proceed in the screening schedule.

Only six men had scored 75 or higher, said Balek. They received letters advising them to be prepared for oral interviews.

AFTER RECEIVING the patrolman's phone call outlining the correct procedure, Balek called City Atty. Donald M. Rose and learned the patrolman knew more about the law than the commissioners did, he said.

"We erred, and the next day we sent letters to the other 12 men" telling them they still were in the running for the promotions list, said Balek. One of the 18 men who took the test has since resigned from the department, and five already have been interviewed, said Balek. Interviews with the 12 remaining men are scheduled during the next month, he said.

The police department has two openings for new sergeants, but because the city is under a hiring moratorium, the promotions will not be made until after May 1, the start of the new fiscal year. Promotions will leave vacancies in the patrolman ranks, where one opening already exists from the resignation. Until the moratorium is lifted, the vacancy will remain open.

Friends of Library meeting Wednesday

The Friends of the Rolling Meadows Library will hold their annual meeting Wednesday at the library at 8 p.m.

The Friends of the Library annually sponsor a fund drive to provide additional equipment and materials for the library. Recently, they presented two record browsers for the children's record collection to the children's room. The Friends also sponsor an annual book sale and the Halloween party held at the library.

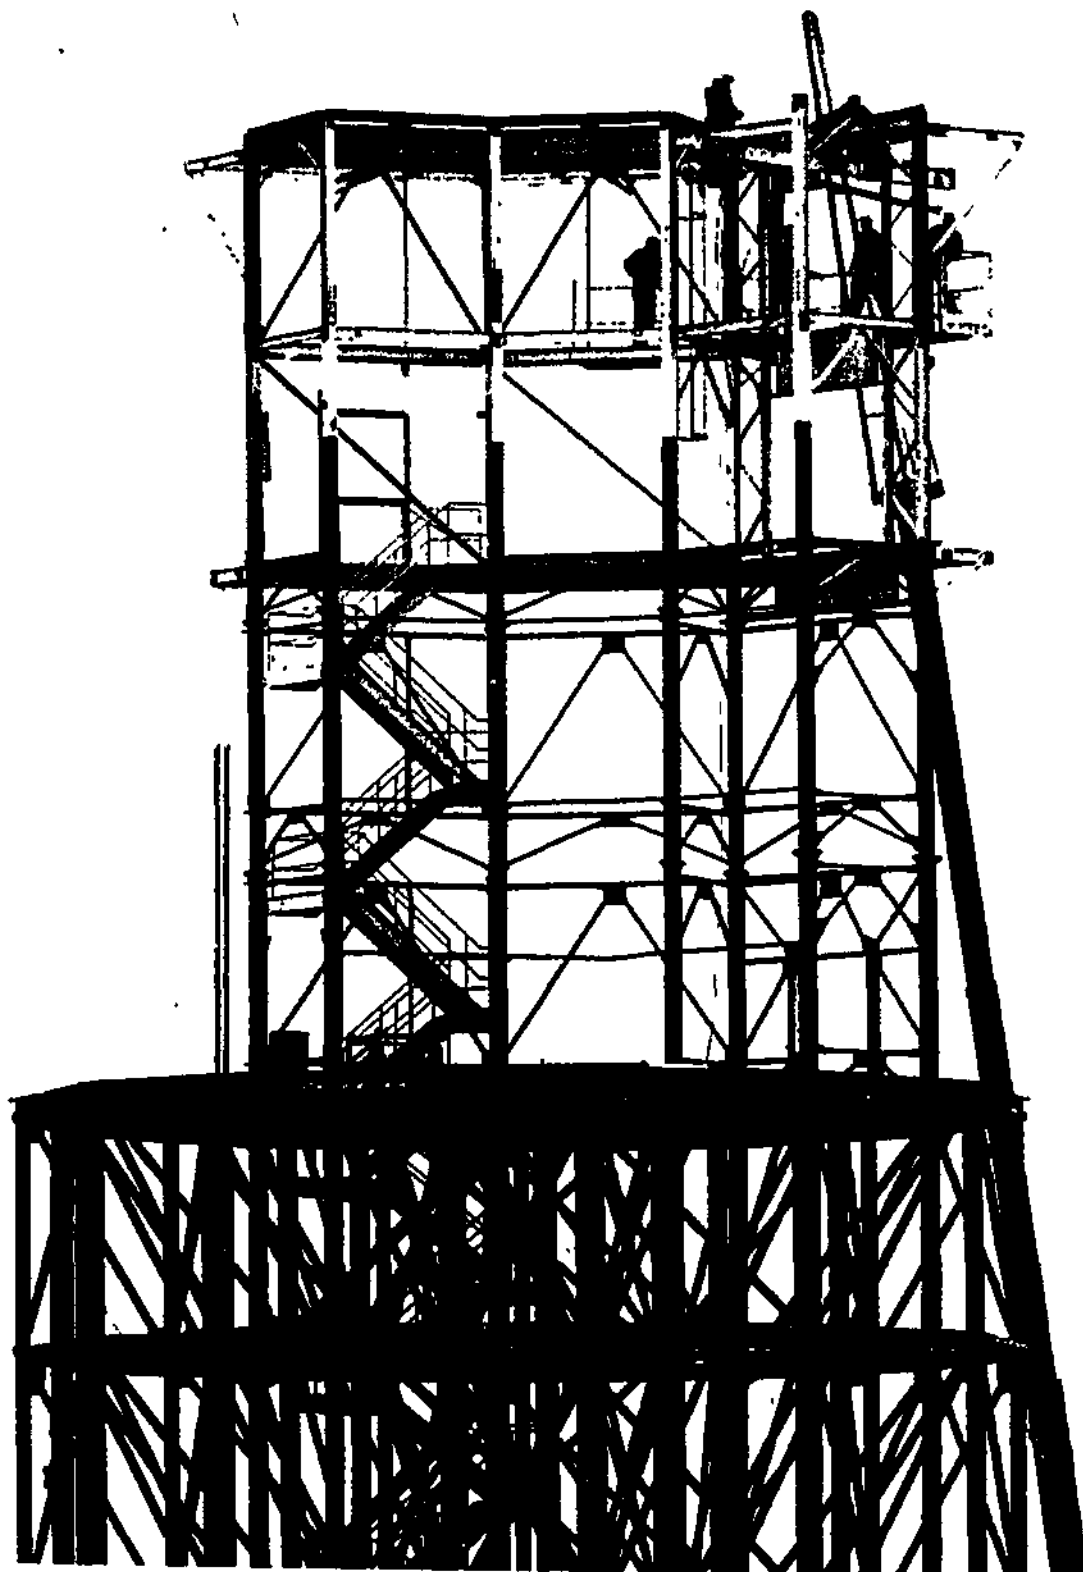

All members of the Friends or any interested Rolling Meadows residents are invited to attend. For further information, call Friends' president Louise Wasner, 259-4159.

Preschool programs offered at library

The Rolling Meadows Public Library is accepting registrations for its preschool programs for 3- to 5-year-olds.

Half-hour sessions will be held Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m. and Wednesdays at 10:30 a.m. during February and March. Programs will feature stories, movies, songs, finger plays and other activities. Registration is limited to 30 children per session and registration forms may be picked up at the library.

For further information residents are asked to call Arlene Sergot at the library, 259-6030.

Mistrial declared

Hung jury in Middleton civil suit

by BARRY SIGALE
A mistrial was declared Monday in the $1.2 million civil suit against Dr. James G. Middleton, convicted Des Plaines physician, when a Circuit Court jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

The seven-woman, five-man jury was summoned by Judge George Schaller at 4:50 p.m., 5½ hours after beginning deliberations. The judge asked the jury foreman if the panel had reached a verdict. "No," was the reply. Schaller ordered the jurors to meet for another hour, but they remained deadlocked.

Middleton was charged by Lynn Nelson, 27, with drugging and sexually assaulting her Feb. 7, 1970. During the three-day trial, Mrs. Nelson testified that Middleton's actions caused her physical and mental stress.

MRS. NELSON, who lived in Carpentersville at the time of the incident and now lives in Matthews, N.C., was not in the courtroom when the mistrial was declared.

Her attorney, Patrick Mahoney, would not comment on whether she plans to ask for a new trial.

Middleton, 48, seemed pleased with the jury's findings and said he was confident Mrs. Nelson would not seek a new trial. He said she perjured herself during the trial and predicted that alleged contradictions in her testimony would practically assure a successful appeal of his 1972 conviction of deviate sexual assault.

"I've got an absolute appeal now," he said, adding that he believed the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education "would feel compelled to give me back for federal explosives and firearms violations. He is free on appeal.

Mrs. Nelson charged in the civil suit that her voice deepened and hair grew all over her body from the injection of male hormones. She sought $1,220,000 in damages.

In his defense, Middleton, acting as his own attorney, said he did not assault Mrs. Nelson, and said no medication could cause the symptoms described by Mrs. Nelson.

In his closing remarks Monday, Middleton said information presented during the trial was "concealed, false or misrepresented."

He said there was "not one iota of testimony substantiating or lending any cred-

Loss of garbage collector to alter 'no-hiring' plan?

Rolling Meadows officials are reconsidering a freeze on hiring city employees because there now are two vacancies in the city's public works department and one on the police department.

The no-hiring policy was ordered by Mayor Roland J. Meyer because of uncertainty about the city's fiscal position for year's end April 30. The mayor put a moratorium on all hiring, including filling vacancies from resignations or firings, unless it was found a department became so undermanned it could not function.

A vacancy in the public works department's garbage-collection crew apparently is the one that concerns City Mgr. James Watson and Meyer most. Watson said he would discuss staffing with Public Works Supt. John Hennessy to determine whether a replacement is essential to handle the city's collection schedules and routes. The city must not allow garbage collection to be interrupted, he said.

Meyer said Monday the vacancy, if it becomes a problem, possibly could be filled by transferring another public works employee to the collection crew until May 1, when the moratorium is due to expire. Meyer said he had discussed the police department vacancy with Chief Lewis R. Case, and found the department could manage with one less man. If other vacancies arise, he moratorium could be lifted for either or both departments, he said.

"I put it into effect. I'm certain I can say I'll lift it for these reasons, or whatever," said Meyer, citing the possibility of hardship if several more vacancies should occur.

St. Colette busy planning for annual parish fest

Springtime is parish festival time at St. Colette's Catholic Church, 3900 Meadow Dr., and plans are under way for this year's festival, scheduled for March 14, 15, 21 and 22.

Developed around the Bicentennial theme of "This is Our Country," this year's parish festival will feature five half-hour shows held in specially decorated classrooms and the church hall.

More than 500 parishioners and community residents have been working since this fall to write and plan these original shows. Enhanced with professional lighting, sound systems and cos-turning, the shows attracted nearly 4,000 persons last year, the first year the festival was held.

Proceeds from the show go to the St. Colette Parish General Fund. Last year's income of $15,000 was used to reroof the school building, resurface the church and school parking lots and paint exterior trim on the church.

Tickets at $5 each for all five shows are available at the church after masses and by calling 255-9508 or 259-9114. A limit of 1,200 tickets will be sold for each of the four evening performances.

Only 10% spending increase

Police plan no salary hikes in tight budget

The Palatine Police Dept. is planning a hold-the-line budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year that calls for a 10 per cent spending increase with no salary raises.

Police personnel will receive the same salaries as this year in the new fiscal year which begins May 1, unless village officials allocate additional funds for raises, Lt. Harold Nehmzow said.

The department is requesting only funds to replenish its office supplies and maintain its present equipment. Only a minimum of officer training programs and service programs will be offered in the new year, Nehmzow said.

The proposed police budget is about $1 million for the new year, 10 per cent more than its current yearly budget of $927,000. The increase is because of the rising inflationary costs of supplies and equipment maintenance, Nehmzow said.

NEHMZOW AND other officers in the department have been preparing the budget requests under the direction of Police Chief Jerry Bratcher who is attending a five-week training course at Northwestern University. Nehmzow will present the budget requests Friday to Village Mgr. Anton Harwig.

The department will not request funds from the village for two major programs that it hopes to begin this spring, but has applied for federal grants to finance them.

The department has applied for a $51,000 federal grant to fund a crime prevention program, and an $18,461 federal grant to fund a bicycle safety program.

Both programs will use a bus that will travel throughout the village and distribute printed information about crime and bicycle safety.

Patrolmen will use the bus in school and group presentations to explain to residents how they can better prevent burglary and vandalism, and to offer bikers a free bicycle testing service.

THE TWO NEW programs will not be offered if the department does not receive the federal funds, Nehmzow said.

The only operating program that the department plans to expand is the fire-arms program for patrolmen and officers. The expansion of the program will cost the village $700 more than the $1,700 allocated this year.

The department will request about $21,000 for training programs for patrolmen and officers. The programs will offer training in youth problems, narcotics, evidence technology, and community relations.

The department will request about $25,000 from the village to purchase basic supplies and maintain its present equipment. The department had hoped to purchase a new radio and generator next year, but will be unable to "now with the village's finances being what they are," Nehmzow said.

THE BUDGET calls for hiring an additional clerk and a community services aide, but no new patrolmen. The department has $12,800 budgeted this year to hire an additional patrolman which it plans to do before the end of the fiscal year, Nehmzow said. Salaries for the department's 60 full-time personnel will not exceed $300,000 in the next fiscal year, he said.

Budget preparations are under way in all village departments and the village board has directed Harwig to include only a $100,000 increase in the general fund and no new taxes.

Budget guidelines call for no new positions, no major capital expenditures and a reduction in nonessential spending.

Method of picking clerk will be on May 15 ballot

The Palatine Village Board voted Monday night to include the manner of selecting the village clerk on the April 15 ballot.

The voters will decide whether the clerk's office will continue to be filled as it is now by election, or whether the clerk should be appointed by the village manager.

The inclusion of the question on the April ballot was submitted by the board's administration, finance and legislation committee. The full board adopted the recommendation unanimously.

Village Pres. Wendell Jones said, "If the referendum fails, it will mean we would have a part-time elected clerk." Jones was referring to the side issue of whether the clerk's position should be expanded to full-time.

THE PRESENT CLERK, Diane Greenlee, serves part-time and receives a $1,200 annual salary. Both she and deputy Clerk June Boston have backed the change to a full-time position.

Jones said if the measure calling for an appointive clerk passed, it would be taken as a directive to the village manager in favor of a full-time position. He added that if the measure failed, the village, under home-rule authority, could act to expand the hours and salary.

However, Jones said no action to expand the clerk's hours could be taken before the clerk's term takes effect in 1975.

Jones said he favored a full-time clerk, but said he had not yet reached a decision about backing the April 15 proposal. "There's a lot to say for keeping it out of the administrative offices and to let the people control it through election," he said.

He added that this view could be balanced by an increased involvement in village affairs by an appointed clerk.

The group says it will use the proceeds from the one-day pizza sale to pay for various community activities throughout the year.

Palatine employee runs for Arlington trustee

Robert H. Miller, Palatine's new director of public works, is seeking election as an Arlington Heights trustee.

Miller filed his petitions for office Monday and said he felt there is no conflict of interest in holding an appointed $22,500 a year job in Palatine and being an elected official in Arlington Heights.

"I thought about that," he said, but added he checked with Village Pres. Wendell Jones, Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack Siegel and other local officials and "they thought there would be no problem."

Miller, 33, replaced James Bennett Oct. 21 as public works director of Palatine. He is a member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

Mistrial declared

Hung jury in Middleton civil suit

by BARRY SIGALE
A mistrial was declared Monday in the $1.2 million civil suit against Dr. James G. Middleton, convicted Des Plaines physician, when a Circuit Court jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

The seven-woman, five-man jury was summoned by Judge George Schaller at 4:50 p.m., 5½ hours after beginning deliberations. The judge asked the jury foreman if the panel had reached a verdict. "No," was the reply. Schaller ordered the jurors to meet for another hour, but they remained deadlocked.

Middleton was charged by Lynn Nelson, 27, with drugging and sexually assaulting her Feb. 7, 1970. During the three-day trial, Mrs. Nelson testified that Middleton's actions caused her physical and mental stress.

MRS. NELSON, who lived in Carpentersville at the time of the incident and now lives in Matthews, N.C., was not in the courtroom when the mistrial was declared.

Her attorney, Patrick Mahoney, would not comment on whether she plans to ask for a new trial.

Middleton, 48, seemed pleased with the jury's findings and said he was confident Mrs. Nelson would not seek a new trial. He said she perjured herself during the trial and predicted that alleged contradictions in her testimony would practically assure a successful appeal of his 1972 conviction of deviate sexual assault. "I've got an absolute appeal now," he said, adding that he believed the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education "would feel compelled to give me back my license."

MIDDLETON WAS sentenced to 5 to 10 years in prison on the assault conviction and later received a four-year jail term for federal explosives and firearms violations. He is free on appeal.

Mrs. Nelson charged in the civil suit that her voice deepened and hair grew all over her body from the injection of male hormones. She sought $1,220,000 in damages.

In his defense, Middleton, acting as his own attorney, said he did not assault Mrs. Nelson, and said no medication could cause the symptoms described by Mrs. Nelson.

In his closing remarks Monday, Middleton said information presented during the trial was "concealed, false or misrepresented."

He said there was "not one iota of testimony substantiating or lending any credence to the charges."

IN HIS CLOSING statement to the jury Mahoney said, "I have to say Middleton is a brilliant man. But he took that brilliant mind to turn against Mrs. Nelson. She places her whole body in his trust. She comes to him with an upper respiratory problem, he checks her and injects her."

He said Middleton's testimony was not believable and his statements were inconsistent.

The courtroom drama spilled into the hallway on the 21st floor of the Civic Center as four Sheriff's policemen and the court bailiffs were ordered by the judge to conduct a search of the 20 observers and a couple of the participants at the trial. The judge did not explain the reason for the search.

Rural district ex-officials seek park board seats

Two Palatine Township residents who were active in the Palatine Rural Park District filed petitions Monday for the Palatine Park Board in the April 15 election.

Patricia Picardi, secretary for the now-defunct rural park district, and John Turner, former rural park board commissioner, will vie with three other candidates for the single six-year park board seat.

Mrs. Picardi, 28, of 156 W. Cunningham Dr., has lived in the township for three years. She and her husband, Charles, have three children. She also has been a member of the Lincoln School PTA.

John J. Turner, 31, of 1160 Old Bridge

Rd., has been a township resident for four years. He and his wife, Jane, have two children.

Turner is a self-employed commodity trader in Chicago, and a member of the International Monetary Market.

Mrs. Picardi and Turner have said they are seeking election to the newly-consolidated Palatine Park Board to provide more rural area representation. The Palatine rural and Palatine park districts merged Jan. 1.

Other candidates for the park board are Paul H. Issak, 177 Farm Gate Ln., Palatine Township, Nancy Larsen, 276 N. Linden Ave., Palatine; and Waldon O. Degner, who has served on the Palatine Park Board for six years.

Sandblasting to start soon on 'The Bather'

Sandblasting work on "The Bather," the Rolling Meadows Picasso sculpture, will start late this week or early next.

Denise Dennis, a spokesman for Gould Inc., said Monday the sandblasting could start Wednesday, although bad weather could delay the start of blasting on the sculpture itself until Friday or later.

Persons planning to visit the site at Golf Road and the Northwest Tollway are advised to call Pat Carnahan at Gould, 593-3464, ext. 72, to verify the sandblasting has started before they go. Miss Martin said Carl Nesjar, Norwegian artist who will perform the sandblasting, will conduct some tests on the sculpture and will need startup time before he gets under way.

Nesjar will use a high-pressure sand spray to etch into the concrete statue of a nude woman bathing.

The sculpture, designed by the late Pablo Picasso, has been under construction since October.

This spring, Gould will construct a reflecting pool around the sculpture and add the landscaping that was required under Picasso's terms to allow its creation in giant form. The statue stands about 20-feet tall, and when the entire center is finished will be the focal point of what Gould describes as a "woodland" setting with public walkways and park areas in the interior of the office-sports complex.

Utility firm defends bid for rate hike

Citizens Utilities Co. "is in serious need of additional revenues," a company official told the Illinois Commerce Commission at a hearing Monday on a 36 per cent sewer rate-increase request.

Jack O. Sanders, vice president of the utility company, told the ICC that rate increases approved by the commission last year are not sufficient.

In August, the ICC granted Citizens a 16.5 per cent increase in water rates and hiked monthly sewer charges from $3 to $6. Citizens Utilities had been seeking a 52 per cent hike in minimum water rates.

THE RATE INCREASE now under study would boost sewer charges another $2.18 to Citizens customers in the Mount Prospect and Des Plaines area, bringing the monthly charge to $8.18.

Little new information was presented Monday as hearings on the proposed increase began. The utility company hopes to rely on information presented at last year's hearings, and has asked that it be made part of the record for the current hearing.

Opponents of the rate hike are expected to concentrate on the fact that Citizens Utilities is not presenting any new arguments for the increase. The utility firm did not provide any information on revenues generated by the new rates, but said it would be available for the next hearing.

Enrollments up, schools might switch borders

Growing enrollments may cause changes next year in attendance boundaries at Field, Tarkington and Alcott schools in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21.

The schools are at capacity this year and are in developing areas where increased enrollment is expected, said John Barger, associate superintendent.

Sandburg, Stevenson, Twain and Irving elementary schools have empty classrooms where students could be transferred next year, he said. A citizens committee will be asked to look into the enrollment figures and recommend possible solutions.

The school board has recommended forming citizens committees to investigate many problems in Dist. 21 and to develop a long-range plan for the district.

The board is asking all Dist. 21 schools and parents organizations to present areas for study by March 13.

Football meeting Thursday

The Mount Prospect Midget Football Auxiliary has scheduled its annual business meeting for 7 p.m. Thursday at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. See-Gwon Ave.

The meeting will include election of officers. All parents of boys and girls in the program are invited.

The matter was continued until 11 a.m. March 4 when opponents of the rate hike will have the opportunity to cross-examine Citizens Utilities' witnesses and present arguments against the increase.

RAYMOND PETERSEN, attorney representing Mount Prospect, said he did not know what arguments he would present against the rate increase. "We need time to examine our case and meet with our people," he said.

A variety of homeowners groups in areas affected by the proposed increase also have filed for permission to cross-examine witnesses and present opposing arguments. The Waycladen Park Homeowners Assn., near Des Plaines, is being represented by the Water Consumer Assn.

Bardwell's philosophy of education

'Community-oriented' schools needed

by DOROTHY OLIVER
Label Roger Bardwell's philosophy of education "community oriented."

The new acting superintendent of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 wants each school to reflect the personality and needs of its neighborhood. He talks of parents helping to put together an educational program for their children, of using senior citizens as volunteers or tutors in the schools, and of establishing day-care centers in empty classrooms if the need exists.

Bardwell returned to familiar territory when he was selected as acting superintendent after the forced resignation of James Ervill. He served as Dist. 59 superintendent from 1960 to 1966, leaving to become superintendent of schools in Ithaca, N.Y. He has since worked for Harper and Row Publishers and was a teacher at the National College of Education in Evanston.

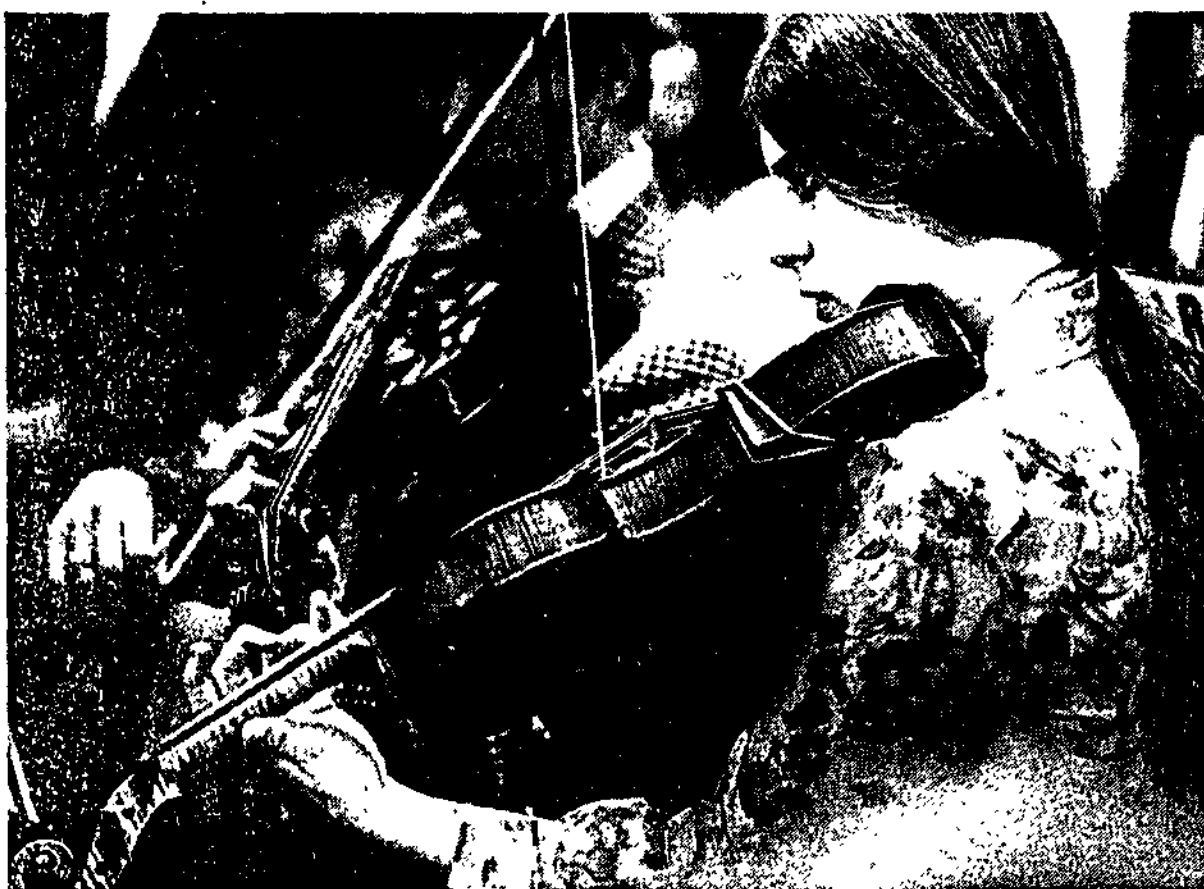

BARDWELL IS glad to be back in his old stomping grounds and makes it no secret that he is a candidate for permanent superintendent. The board of education expects to select a permanent superintendent within three to six months.

In the interim, Bardwell will be "acting" in name only.

Park golf rates corrected

The Mount Prospect Park District corrected its rates for the 1975 foursome golf privileges.

Rates for season passes are $130 for adults, 18 years and older, effective all week; $100 for adults, effective on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays until 1 p.m. only and $60 for juniors 14 through 17 years old, effective Saturdays and Sundays and holidays until 3:30 p.m. and on weekdays after 3 p.m. unless accompanied by adults.

YOUNG MUSICIANS from throughout the state combine their talents at the All-State Concert, which was part of the Illinois Music Educators Assn. convention at the Arlington Park Hilton Hotel last weekend. Lori Ori-el, a viola player from Homewood-Flossmoor High School, was among participants in the Saturday afternoon concert.

Roger Bardwell

"I'll do all that I can while I'm here. I don't plan on acting any different than if I were to stay here forever," he said. Admitting his influence might be less because of his temporary situation, he said, "I think it will be clear to people which way I want to push, which direction I want to go."

Many people in the district who worked with Bardwell in the past are hoping he will bring back the "golden era" of the 60s. After several years under the tight reign of Ervill, they welcome Bardwell's philosophy of decentralizing the district and returning some control and responsibility to principals and teachers.

"I believe in decentralization in the total sense," Bardwell said. "Schools should reflect the principal rather than the central administration. The individual school is where the business goes on. That's where the important decisions should be made."

THE BOARD OF education, he believes, should manage, and monitor the schools. "The board and administration have an important role in seeing that the system is working. They must set up a system of evaluation to make sure it works."

Bardwell also believes the school district should offer diversity in its educational program. He envisions one school offering perhaps an individualized approach while another would follow a very structured, traditional program.

"Parents should be given a choice of educational programs and schools. If they see something in their neighborhood school they can't buy, the parent should have the right to pick another school. They have the choice now but we make it hard for them — it's done so seldom. It should be so common it's comfortable."

Bardwell also would like to see more diversity in educational materials used in the schools. A single text should be used as an anchor, guaranteeing the continuity of the academic program, "but teachers should feel they have a responsibility to depart from that anchor. They should use whatever they can find to teach that child effectively. There's more types of kids than one text can fulfill."

BARDWELL WANTS his schools to respond to the needs of the community whenever possible. "Let's say the No. 1 concern in the community is the need for a good day-care program. If we were to move into that area, provide the care, get some federal funding, we might be looked on as innovative. But we would only be responding to a parent need."

"As superintendent I will suggest some things for the district to do, but they won't be relevant unless there is a need," he said.

Bardwell feels his years in industry and teaching have given him a better perspective on being a superintendent. "The superintendency is an exposed job. You get weary. It's important to have a sabbatical, get away from it, step back and take a look at the whole picture," he said. "In publishing I had a chance to renew myself. I had time to visit lots of schools and see them from the outside. By teaching I got into more theory. Now I'm really ready to come back."

Two forced to refile in park board race

Two candidates in the Mount Prospect Park District election were forced to refile their nominating petitions Monday so their names will appear on the ballot April 1.

William Hickey and Richard P. Coleman failed to indicate on their original petitions whether they were seeking six-year or four-year terms. Although the two would have been the first to appear on the ballot if their first petitions were accepted, there is now a chance that they will be at the bottom of the ballot as a result of the re-filing.

Both candidates refiled their petitions Monday, with Coleman filing just shortly before 5 p.m. when filing officially closed.

THE TWO SAID they hoped that the ballot order will not be readjusted to reflect the new petitions. Hickey noted that some of his petitions were signed before the single four-year seat was vacated with the death of Roland Becker. He said it was therefore obvious that he was filing for a six-year term.

Coleman said he also feels that his name should appear at the top of the ballot, reflecting his first petitions. "I don't agree with the attorney's opinion," he

Church group hits Rob Roy project plan

The council of Grace Lutheran Church, 1624 E. Euclid Ave., will be among the groups objecting to the proposed development of the Rob Roy Golf Course at tonight's Mount Prospect Village Board meeting.

In a letter dated Jan. 26, the council charged that development of the golf course would lead to increased flooding in the area. Kenroy Inc., Skokie, has proposed building 2,350 units on half the 200-acre golf course, leaving room for the River Trails Park District to purchase the remaining land to retain a golf course.

The church is southeast of the golf course, next to existing park district property.

"As it is now, everytime it rains heavily, our parking lot floods," the church council stated. "As more and more land in this area is paved, the flooding problem keeps getting worse. This is one of the reasons your public meetings are so heavily attended, local homeowners protesting Kenroy Inc. enriching itself at their expense."

NOTING THAT the development could house up to 8,000 people, the council charged that the project would be to the detriment of the community.

"Since we, the church, are made up of ordinary people supporting families as well as Grace Lutheran, we agree that the entire populace of the area would be affected," the council said.

Village board members tonight will be asked to reconsider an earlier vote which called for an end to negotiations with Kenroy on the project. Trustees George B. Anderson and Richard N. Hendricks have already indicated that they will vote against the project.

The vote hinges on three trustees — Marie L. Caylor, O.T. Gustus and E. F. Richardson — who are currently undecided. Trustee Kenneth V. Scholten and Mayor Robert D. Teichert have already indicated they favor the project.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Car smashes window of G. C. Murphy store

A car smashed a front window Monday night at the G. C. Murphy Co. variety store, 1127 Mount Prospect Plaza, police said.

The car drove off before police arrived. Police said an estimated $300 damage was done to the store.

said referring to the park attorney's earlier remarks. He called the matter "a technicality that is probably not valid."

The two join Theodore Pandak, former Mount Prospect zoning board member, in challenging incumbents Rosemary Argus and William Selep.

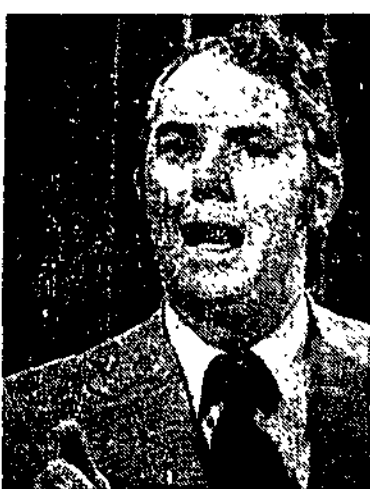

Victor Rose is the only candidate who has filed for the four-year seat vacated with Becker's death.

Most of the candidates have indicated satisfaction with the current operation of the park district and have not yet defined any issues in the campaign.

Mrs. Argus and Selep live in Des Plaines and the other candidates live in Mount Prospect.

$20,000 damage, four hurt

Arson believed cause of house fire

Fire officials said Monday they believe arson apparently was responsible for a fire Saturday that caused at least $20,000 damage to a house at 501 N. Elm-hurst Ave., Mount Prospect, and injured four firemen.

Fire Chief Lawrence A. Pairitz said an investigation has failed to pinpoint the cause of the fire, but there are indications a flammable liquid may have been used.

Pairitz said there were two separate fires extinguished by firemen. One was near the south wall on the first floor and the other, larger fire was in the south-west corner of the second floor.

AN EARLIER REPORT by the police department had mentioned a third fire, but Pairitz said that burned area was from an attempted firebombing about five years ago.

The house, listed in 1972 as one of several in the village that was a health or safety hazard, was vacant until this summer when its owner, James Gillison, Sr., reportedly moved in. Authorities were unable to reach Gillison as of late Monday.

Pairitz has recommended that the village building department declare the house unfit for habitation, which means it will have to be repaired or torn down.

"In my opinion," Building Director Buell Dutton said Monday, "the entire building from the top of the roof down to the underside of the second floor would have to be completely removed and replaced. This would be a substantial cost."

Detectives section honored by village

Mount Prospect Police detectives section has been given a certificate of commendation by Village Mgr. Robert J. Ep-pley.

The certificate cited "outstanding job performance" by Sgt. Patrick Hallihan and Detectives Richard Pascoe, Dennis Leonard, Leonard Young and Robert Gibson.

Ep-pley's office said the men solved 53 burglaries and armed robberies within a 30-day period and contributed to the solving of an additional 90 crimes in surrounding communities.

Candidates sought for school board

Candidates for the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 Board of Education election in April are being sought by the district's caucus nominating committee.

Board seats held by William Holloway and Michael Ward will be up for election in April. Holloway and Ward have announced they will not seek reelection.

Citizens interested in running for the board can contact Art Vogelgesang, nominating committee chairman, at 392-7157. Interviews will be held by Feb. 9, with caucus endorsements made by the end of February.

Lesniak unopposed in Prospect Heights

Two run for River Trails park seat

Two candidates will vie for one seat on the River Trails Park Board in the April 15 election.

William R. DeWaal, 45, of 1824 Cree Ln., Mount Prospect, and Robert Krueger, 29, of 1328 Peartree Ln., Mount Prospect, are seeking the six-year term.

DeWaal was appointed to the park board earlier this month to fill a vacancy created by the December resignation of Eugene L. DiBlasi, who was transferred out of state. DeWaal is an administrator of group insurance, a former president of the Euclid-Lake Homeowners Assn., Mount Prospect, and a former external vice president of the Evanston Jaycees.

Krueger is in the construction business. He said he was running to become "involved with the community" and because of an interest in the district's programs.

One of three seats at stake in the April 15 Prospect Heights Park Board election will be uncontested.

Comr. Joe Lesniak, 49, of 412 W. McDonald Rd., will be uncontested in his bid for reelection to a six-year term.

For the open four-year term, incumbent Comr. Robert M. Barut, 42, of 417 Dorset Ln., will be opposed by Reynolds Tague, 51, of 206 Tully Pl.

Barut was appointed to the board last year. He has been involved with the Prospect Heights Little League.

Tague has been a member of the Prospect Heights Lions Club for 20 years, having served as its president, and a member of the Lions committee which set up the original Lions Park Pool and other park facilities before the formation of the park district. He also was involved for several years with Little League.

FOUR CANDIDATES will run for the open two-year term, which Comr. Patricia Kerwin has chosen to vacate. The candidates are Jo-Ellen Claws, 45, of 203 N. Parkway; Otto C. Guedelhoefer, 50, of 100 E. Clarendon St.; Rose Coulter, 58, of 8 Ridge Rd.; and Carlton W. Loh-rentz, 29, of 202 Tully Pl.

Mrs. Claws is coordinator of the park district's senior-citizen club, a Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school crossing guard and active in the Little League and two church choirs. She also was a former member of the Prospect Heights Woman's Club and was active in PTA.

Guedelhoefer is a structural engineer and has acted as a consultant to the Chicago Park District.

Mrs. Coulter is active in Little League and is also a school crossing guard.

Lohrentz, a lawyer, said he is running "to get a little involved in what's going on in the community."

Lohrentz and Mrs. Coulter filed Monday, the last day for filing, and will be third and fourth on the ballot, respectively, following Mrs. Claws and Guedelhoefer.

School lunch menus

The following lunches will be served Wednesday in area schools where a hot lunch program is provided (subject to change without notice):

It's official: Ryan to seek presidency

by KURT BAER

Trustee James T. Ryan announced his independent candidacy for village president Monday, saying he wants Arlington Heights voters to have a choice in the April 1 election.

"I don't think that 600 people who attend the Caucus meeting should pick who's going to run this village. We saw that two years ago, and after the Caucus only 1,800 actually voted in the election," he said.

Ryan said he hoped the campaign against the Caucus candidate, Trustee David Griffin, would be one of the issues and not turn into a contest between Republican and Democratic political organizations. But he continued to imply that the Jan. 19 Caucus nominating session had been stacked for Griffin.

"I simply am not sure that the (Caucus) method by which candidates are picked is the proper way to pick candidates. Four years ago we had a situation where the Caucus rules were bent . . . and it became a complete travesty. It had been my hope that some changes would be made to eliminate electioneering, but they weren't."

RYAN STOPPED short of charging that the Wheeling Township Democratic Organization had packed the Caucus for Griffin, and said he planned to run an independent campaign despite his years of activity in the township's Republican organization.

"I'm not convinced the village is well served by a Democrat-Republican situation. It's never been that way. I hope it will be a campaign of issues," he said.

"I certainly can't hide the fact that I'm a Republican and I'm proud of that. But I don't plan to seek the active support of the organization as a whole."

Ryan, 38, of 3350 Carlingway Dr., did not seek the Caucus endorsement.

In a statement released Monday, Ryan identified the cost of government as a primary issue, calling it "the nub and substance of it all."

"Just as we all are going through a period of belt tightening in our individual budgets, so must we do likewise in our municipal government," he said.

GROWTH in the village has virtually stopped, and village officials will have to find new "progressive" ways of paying the cost of local government, he said.

"The single-family homeowner bears a disproportionate share of the cost of government. We've got to find ways of spreading this cost to others."

Calling downtown redevelopment "a job for private funds," he added that the role of village officials should be to motivate downtown property owners.

He reiterated his earlier proposal that the village's appointed Board of Local Improvements be dissolved and that the village board organize itself as such a board when and if special assessment projects become necessary.

As to the relationship of the village board to the village administration, Ryan said it was the unique responsibility of the village president to ensure that board policy is followed.

"The buck stops at the village president's desk. It's his responsibility to see programs carried out through the village manager system," he said, adding that it's often a "fine line" between what is policy and what is administration.

RESPONDING TO Caucus candidates' charges that the village board has become "unresponsive" to citizens, Ryan said, "I don't think I've been unresponsive for five years, or that Dave Griffin has been unresponsive for the two years he's been on the board."

"Government is people and it's got to serve people," he said, adding that he was a member of the village board's public relations committee when it instituted the village newsletter.

On the future development of Arlington Park Race Track, Ryan said the high-rise apartment plan was "totally unacceptable" to him, and he said he would be opposed to using any village funds for the construction of a stadium at the race track.

Ryan has named David R. Wiltse, 102 S. Wilshire Ln., as his full-time campaign manager. Wiltse, 22, is a former legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

Ryan said he did not know how much his independent campaign for the village's top elected office would cost.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighters open up the roof at 1015 S. Ridge Ave. to douse flames from a fire that started in the basement at about 9:20 p.m. About $10,000 damage was caused to the home owned by Jim Rahn, fire officials said. The cause of the fire was not determined, but the blaze started near the furnace.

10 seek seats on park board

Ten persons are seeking election to the Arlington Heights Park Board April 15.

The tenth candidate filed Monday, the last day petitions were accepted. He is Archie Loch, 42, of 707 E. Talbot St., a sales manager for the Stecher-Traung-Schmidt Corp., Elk Grove Village. He and his wife, Carmel, have 14 children and have lived in Arlington Heights for 12 years.

Loch and four other candidates have filed for a four-year seat that is open on the park board. The other candidates for the four-year seat include incumbent Arthur Goldberg, 319 S. Yale Ave., who recently was appointed to the board; Robert Rohleder, 907 Cypress Dr.; Robert D. Smith, 517 S. Prindio St.; and Robert Mahlo, 1405 W. Lexington Dr.

Five candidates are competing for two six-year seats. Those candidates include Frederick Ford, 309 S. Evergreen St.; Jack Whisler, 1413 E. Wing St.; Darwin Townsend, 106 Router St.; and Jacqueline Gruenewald, 1524 Best Dr.

German band to visit Dunton

The German Band from Arlington High School will perform Wednesday at Dunton School, 1200 S. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights. Performances will be at 2 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. Morning kindergarten students and their parents are invited.

Nominees sought for education award

Nominations will be accepted through Jan. 31 for the High School Dist. 214 "Distinguished Service to Education" award.

For the second year in a row, the district will present the award to honor residents in each of the eight high school attendance areas of the district who have given "distinguished service to public education at the secondary level."

The nomination should include the address, phone and school served by the nominee as well as the name of the person making the nomination. Nominees may not be employees of the district nor elected school officials. The contribution should have been made since September 1974.

Nominations should be sent to the district administration center, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect. The awards will be presented in March.

Surprise! 3 more join trustee race

Three surprise candidates turned in nominating petitions for village trustee Monday, the final day of filing for the April 1 Arlington Heights election.

Running for four-year terms on the village board will be August Bettman, a member of the village's Board of Local Improvements; Robert H. Miller, plan commissioner, and Trustee O. V. Anderson, who had previously said he would not seek election.

A meeting is scheduled later this week when the three men will discuss their campaign plans and whether they will band together as a slate in opposition to the Caucus Party.

All three said they are not now aligned with independent village president candidate, Trustee James T. Ryan. Ryan also said he and the newly-filed candidates were not part of any slate.

THE EMERGENCE of three new candidates apparently followed a weekend of political planning by persons disgruntled with the slate nominated by the Caucus Jan. 19.

Anderson said backers talked to him for more than 45 minutes Sunday night to convince him to run. But he declined to name the individuals who persuaded him.

"I thought I was a good salesman but I was sure outsold," he said.

Anderson, 62, of 701 S. Walnut Ave., had not planned to run for election to the village board. He was appointed to the board last August to fill the vacancy created when then-Trustee Ralph H. Clabour was appointed village president.

"I hadn't planned on running but there were certain things I didn't like about what happened at the Caucus," he said. "It would be foolish to say that what happened didn't affect any of the independent candidates."

ANDERSON HAS been a village resident for 19 years. He recently retired as a real estate expert with the Union Oil Co. and now works for F.B.K. Inc., Realtors in Arlington Heights as a sales counselor.

Bettman, 52, of 315 W. Noyes St., said he is running for two main reasons — to give voters a choice April 1 and to uphold the record of the village administration that has been attacked by two Caucus candidates.

"I have always been a firm believer that the voters should have a choice, particularly now that Arlington Heights has grown to 73,000," he said.

Bettman has been a member of the Board of Local Improvements since 1971.

But he disclosed Monday that Jan. 2 he sent a letter of resignation, effective April 30, to Clabour.

"I resigned because I was unhappy with the way it's being operated. We're not listening to the people," he said.

BETTMAN SAID he has not supported BOLI's recent controversial plans to install sidewalks by special assessment throughout the northeast side of the village and in parts of Skansdale and Stonegate subdivisions.

"I have been in the minority on this and the (BOLI meeting) minutes will bear me out. I am in favor of sidewalks where there are big gaps and where they are actually needed. I was against going over to Windsor Drive (in Stonegate) or any other areas that don't already have sidewalks," he said.

Bettman said he was disturbed by "the real strong anti-administration" statements made by two of the Caucus candidates, Mary Schlott and Madeline Schroeder who criticized Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson as being unresponsive and interfering with policy decisions.

"Very few communities grew like Arlington Heights and have handled growth with a minimum of problems. And there are very few areas where real estate has increased in value like it has here, Bettman said.

"I have never heard a bad word about Arlington Heights in my travels throughout the Chicago area. There have been no scandals, bribes or kickbacks and I think it's because we have had a good administration, village boards and aggressive village presidents."

"When the administration oversteps their boundaries it's the fault of the board of trustees. With all the criticism, I wonder if we're going to continue to make progress, or slow down to a halt."

Bettman has lived in Arlington Heights for the past eight years. In addition to sitting on BOLI, he has served on the plan commission for the past nine months. He is district field sales manager for the Standard Oil Co.

MILLER, 34, of 119 W. Pickwick Rd., said he is running for trustee because he thinks he can do a better job than any of the Caucus candidates.

"Basically I looked at the candidates nominated by the Caucus Party and I didn't think they were the most qualified people for the job," he said.

Miller is currently director of public

Mistrial declared in Middleton suit

by BARRY SIGALE

A mistrial was declared Monday in the $1.2 million civil suit against Dr. James G. Middleton, convicted Des Plaines physician, when a Circuit Court jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

The seven-woman, five-man jury was summoned by Judge George Schaller at 4:30 p.m., 6½ hours after beginning deliberations. The judge asked the jury foreman if the panel had reached a verdict. "No," was the reply. Schaller ordered the jurors to meet for another hour, but they remained deadlocked.

Middleton was charged by Lynn Nelson, 27, with drugging and sexually assaulting her Feb. 7, 1970. During the three-day trial, Mrs. Nelson testified that Middleton's actions caused her physical and mental stress.

MRS. NELSON, who lived in Carpentersville at the time of the incident and now lives in Matthews, N.C., was not in the courtroom when the mistrial was declared.

Her attorney, Patrick Mahoney, would not comment on whether she plans to ask for a new trial.

Middleton, 49, seemed pleased with the jury's findings and said he was confident Mrs. Nelson would not seek a new trial. He said she perjured herself during the trial and predicted that alleged contradictions in her testimony would practically assure a successful appeal of his 1972 conviction of deviate sexual assault.

"I've got an absolute appeal now," he said, adding that he believed the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education "would feel compelled to give me back my license."

MIDDLETON WAS sentenced to 5 to 10 years in prison on the assault conviction and later received a four-year jail term for federal explosives and firearms violations. He is free on appeal.

Mrs. Nelson charged in the civil suit that her voice deepened and hair grew all over her body from the injection of male hormones. She sought $1,220,000 in damages.

In his defense, Middleton, acting as his own attorney, said he did not assault Mrs. Nelson, and said no medication could cause the symptoms described by Mrs. Nelson.

In his closing remarks Monday, Middleton said information presented during the trial was "concealed, false or misrepresented."

He said there was "not one iota of testimony substantiating or lending any credence to the charges."

IN HIS CLOSING statement to the jury Mahoney said, "I have to say Middleton is a brilliant man. But he took that brilliant mind to turn against Mrs. Nelson. She places her whole body in his trust. She comes to him with an upper respiratory problem, he checks her, and injects her."

He said Middleton's testimony was not believable and his statements were inconsistent.

works and engineering for the Village of Palatine. He said Monday that he does not think running for the village board in Arlington Heights, where he has lived for the past 11 years, poses any conflict of interest problems.

He said he checked with Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel, Hanson, Clarbourn and Palatine Pres. Wendell Jones before deciding to run and all of them agreed on the legitimacy of his candidacy.

Miller has been on the plan commission for two years. He said he was interested in running for the village board in the 1973 village election but because he was working for the Illinois Dept. of Highways at the time, he did not follow up on an application to the Caucus.

He said he did not want to discuss issues until after the meeting of the three independent candidates later this week.

No ties to Dems, Griffin insists

Trustee David Griffin, Caucus candidate for village president, denied Monday that he has any affiliations with Democratic political organizations as charged by Village Pres. Ralph H. Clarbourn and other village Republicans.

"I'm an independent candidate, a non-partisan candidate. That is the pledge we (Caucus candidates) took and I wouldn't have it any other way. I would not accept support from either of the political parties if it were offered," he said.

Donald Norman, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, also repeated his objections to accusations that he backed the Jan. 19 Caucus meeting with party regulars.

"That was Dave Griffin's personal victory. I was there with a number of my friends, sure. I'm entitled to be as a citizen. And we supported him because he was the most qualified man."

Norman said he was sick and tired of what he called "Republican crybabies." "If they don't win with their surreptitious (Caucus) rules, they want to take their balls and go home."

CLARBOURN, WHO LOST the Caucus nomination for village president to Griffin, said Sunday he thought the Democratic Party was attempting to gain a foothold in suburban Cook County by capturing the village president's office.

He also accused Griffin of spending national and county election nights at the Democratic Party's Chicago headquarters.

"That statement is totally untrue," Griffin said Monday. "I am not connected with the Democratic organization."

Underscoring his insistence that Griffin's nomination was free of any party politics, Norman said he did not know of any Democratic precinct captain who attended the Caucus meeting.
